MOTOR NOTES.

(BY OUR MOTORING CORRESPONDENT.)

The reduction in the price of petrol is not so great as it might have been. Freights have fallen considerably, and the use of roadside pumps must mean a great saving in the cost of distribution. These two factors alone would justify the present "cut." The price in Ireland is maintained at twopence above the English and a penny above the Scottish level on the ground that the cost of delivery is higher. Personally, I cannot understand how it is more costly to deliver petrol in Dublin, where a tanker can come right up the river to discharge its cargo, than it is to deliver it in, say, Birmingham, where a long railway journey is involved.

A Warning.

That petrol is a very volatile spirit was terribly demonstrated at Nuneaton ten days ago, when a motor omnibus burst into flames and seven passengers were burnt to death. This disaster should serve as a warning to every motorist that petrol requires careful handling. How often do we see people smoking near a stream of petrol? The vapour coming from an open tank spreads out for a surprising distance, and is liable to be fired by a match burning several feet away. The flame travels instantly along the trail of vapour to the tank, and once the supply of spirit is ignited disaster is certain unless a proper extinguisher can be brought into operation at once.

The danger of a flare up is greater when the tank is at the rear of the car than when it is under the seat, for if the engine is left running there is always the danger of backfire, which might ignite any petrol being poured into the tank. Tanks inside the bonnet are also dangerous, as the spirit may fall over the hot engine or a defective electrical connection. Three rules should be observed when filling a tank—(1) see that there is no naked light in the vicinity, (2) see that the engine is not running, (3) see that there are no passengers in the car.

Cheaper Cars.

The British car manufacturers, struggling with adversity in the shape of keen competition from the Continent, are making a fine effort to maintain their grip on the home markets. Half a dozen of them, deciding not to wait for next month's show, have announced their programmes for 1925. They have offered to supply their new models at once, and, best of all, have made bold cuts in prices. The Morris folk, as usual, have given the lead. Their prices have been reduced by amounts varying from £20 to £50. The new models embody many improvements, notably the equipment of balloon tyres as standard.

The Royal Ulster Constabulary are making an unenviable reputation for themselves in Belfast. For some reason, which it is impossible to fathom, they have launched an unnecessary and irritating campaign against motorists, and in the conduct of it are straining their powers unduly. Last Thursday two motorists were put to the worry and expense of appearing before the magistrates to answer charges of alleged reckless driving. The evidence failed to support the charges and the magistrates promptly dismissed the cases. If these prosecutions stood alone I would not venture to adduce them as evidence of an anti-motorist campaign, but they are only two out of many which never should have been brought.

An Absurd Case.

The most glaring example of zeal run to madness was provided last Tuesday, when three employés of a Belfast agent were summoned for driving new cars which had not been registered. The facts were not disputed. The employés had been sent to the railway station to take delivery of the cars and bring them to the garage for examination before they were registered. This has been the unbroken practice not only in Belfast, but in every other city in Ireland, England, Scotland and Wales since the motor industry began; but some unknown mandarin in the Northern Government or the Ulster police headquarters has decided that it must cease. The magistrates held that there had been a technical breach of the law, and imposed nominal fines on the three employés. At the same time they let it be known in no uncertain terms that in their opinion the prosecution never should have been brought.

Straining the letter of the law so as to convert it into an instrument of oppression never served a good purpose, and the sooner responsible members of the Northern Government impress that fact on the unknown mandarin the better it will be for all concerned. His antics in this case are calculated to bring the adminstration of the law into contempt. If similar prosecutions are brought in the future the result may be that all cars will be registered where they are made, and that a substantial sum in fees will be lost to Belfast every year.

Engine Trouble is often caused by unsuitable oil—the result of asking for "A" or "BB" Oil. Always ask for Gargoyle Mobiloil "A" or Gargoyle Mobiloil "BB," or whichever grade is specified for your car in the Chart of Recommendations.—(Advt.)

POLICEMAN ASSAULTED.

SHOT FIRED IN TENEMENT.

Joseph Farrell (26), labourer, of 2 Lower Gardiner street, and Mary Fennelly (29), 118 Lower Gardiner street, were charged before Mr. Collins, K.C., in the Dublin District Court yesterday with having assaulted Constable Monaghan between 9 and 10 o'clock on Sunday night in the tenement house 2 Lower Gardiner street.

The constable's evidence was to the effect that as he was going on duty at Store street Station a woman complained that her father had been beaten by the accused, Farrell, at 33 Lower Gardiner street. He went to the house and saw the girl's father, whose name was Morgan, bleeding considerably from the face. Morgan's son went with witness to Farrell's house, and the latter admitted that he struck Morgan. When told that the constable was going to arrest him for the assault, Farrell took two tumblers from the table and struck the constable on the head with one of them. Fennelly caught the witness by the left arm, and Farrell again assaulted him with a tumbler. The constable then drew his revolver and told Farrell to stand back, but he refused. Farrell struck him a third time.

Witness fired a shot into the floor to frighten him, and the woman, bending down, bit his left hand. A crowd of men and women entered the room, and he put the revolver in his pocket. He was held by these people until uniformed police arrived, when the two defendants were arrested. As a result of the assault he had to get the wound in his head stitched and his hand dressed.

Farrell, examined, stated that the door of the room was burst open by young Morgan and the constable, of whose identity he was not aware. The policeman, addressing him, said, "Come outside," but he did not say that he was a policeman or that he wanted to arrest him, and, added Farrell, "I took the constable for a gunman." He denied assaulting the constable, and said that he was first struck by Gerald Morgan.

Farrell was sent to jail for two months, with hard labour, and Fennelly was fined 40s.

WOMAN'S SUDDEN DEATH

WHILE VISITING DUBLIN.

At an inquest held by Dr. Louis A. Byrne, City Coroner, in Jervis street Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, on the body of Mrs. Johanna Kelly, aged 52 years, of 23 Dickson's place, Carey's road, Limerick, who died suddenly while on a visit to Dublin, the jury attributed the cause of death to valvular disease of the heart

Mrs. Kelly came from Limerick to Dublin on Saturday last with her daughter, Miss Annie Kelly, and both left Kingsbridge Station, travelling by tramcar, for the city. While walking along Middle Gardiner street Mrs. Kelly complained of a pain in the chest and fell on the footpath. She was taken to Jervis street Hospital, and was found to be dead. She had been receiving medical treatment for heart trouble in Limerick.

A GOOD DIGESTION FOR DYSPEPTICS.

You may be doubled up with an attack of dyspepsia, but the moment you take Bisurated Magnesia the pain goes and normal digestion commences. That's because Bisurated Magnesia neutralises the harmful acid that gives rise to the trouble and stops all trace of fermentation. It lets your food do you good, and the difference in your general health and spirits is soon noticed. Bisurated Magnesia is advised for stomach troubles by doctors and hospitals; it forms no habit; is safe for young and old, and costs but a trifle for either powder or tablets. Get some without delay and see the good it does you!

WOMAN AND HER HOME.

FISH AS FOOD.

No supply of fish, however large, seems to affect the tariff of our butchers. Many kinds of sea-produce, notwithstanding their abundance, are dearer in proportion to their food-yielding properties than sirloins of beef or saddles of mutton. The price of fish is at present beyond its value as a food product. An egg, for instance, contains much more meat than an oyster, yet a fresh oyster is at least double the price of a new-laid egg. As all the world knows, the worth of any given article, whether it be flesh or fowl, is just what it brings in the market; and we are all aware that many kinds of fish cannot be bought at certain seasons except at a fancy price. Salmon at three shillings the lb., with turbot quite as much, and both fishes frequently much dearer, leave little hope of any considerable addition to our food supplies being obtained from the sea.

It is a fashion with certain economists to keep iterating that we do not draw on our sea-food supplies to the extent we might do, and it is still more a fashion to have always fancy prices. The salmon, the trout, and the turbot may be instanced as examples of the rage which prevails for "creating" expensive fish. In this matter we are following a fashion which is many hundred years old. The classic epicures gloated over their red and striped mullet, just as the gourmets of to-day may be supposed to gloat over their turbot fins or the thin portion of the salmon. These fishes, turbot and salmon, as we know, rule high in prices at all times.

Having said so much about the economy of our fish supplies, the question will now be asked—What is the real value—as distinguished from the money value—of fish as food? Many elaborate comparisons have been made as to the comparative food values of butcher-meat and fish. Some economic writers maintain that fish has no food value worth speaking of; others say that fish-food must occupy a middle position between vegetables and beef and mutton. Again, a learned authority says that fish, well cooked with oil or fat of some kind, or served with butter when brought to table, "is chemically the same as butcher-meat, so far as nutrition is concerned." Another writer says that fish as food is only fit for children and invalids, and is totally unfitted to support the health and vigour of men and women engaged in laborious occupations. The truth, I daresay, lies between the two extremes; and we believe that what is especially desirable is a wider knowledge of the art of cooking fish in a palatable and tasteful manner. Anyhow, we have to recollect that there is a prodigious virtue in variety of food—one kind, as it were, making up what is wanting in the other. Hence the ever-increasing demand for fish, and rise in the cost of the article.

THE WEDDING DAY

You probably have studied in some useful little book just what the relations have to do on the great day when a sister or a cousin gets married. But, after all the etiquette of the best man handing the ring, and the bridegroom's father giving his arm to the bride's mother, and so on and so forth, has been observed, there is still room for a lot of common-sense and a little ingenuity, if the wedding is to go off successfully.

If the wedding is from the bride's house, she should arrange the presents from the bridegroom's friends in the most prominent position. It sounds absurd, but nothing offends "in-laws" more than to think their gifts are put on one side, and as—somehow it always happens—there is a far greater gathering of the bride's clan than the bridegroom's, you have got to be very careful.

One September bride I know had a sister who arranged things very well. She cleared the drawingroom as far as possible, leaving plenty of space in the middle, and pushed the furniture well back against the walls. She put every little table in the room side by side along the wall, and arranged all the presents on them; for, of course, people wanted to see them.

In the diningroom she had got up a buffet. She took a long deal table from the kitchen (much to her mother's disgust). This she put against the wall, covered it with two of the best tablecloths, and trailed ivy and orange blossom over the join. On it were placed all the refreshments, the wedding cake in the centre, of course, the tea and coffee urns being hired from a confectioner. She arranged small tables for four about the room, covered with the sweetest little cloths in soft cherry-coloured casement (the bride's colour), and masses of white flowers (asters and chrysanthemums) for decoration.

They had two maids to wait, and guests also waited on each other, members of the family helping. People just wandered from drawingroom to diningroom at their own sweet will, seeing the presents or eating wedding cake, as the fancy took them. And here a few words may be said to the bride. Do not delay your going away too long. One of the secrets of a successful wedding party is that it can be riotous while it lasts, but must not last more than a couple of hours. The bride will be well advised to wear a cloak as part of the "going away" outfit: it has the great advantage of being all-enveloping and can be easily shaken free of confetti when once away from the house. The confetti betrayal can be avoided, too, if you choose a plain silk-covered or felt hat, instead of any sort of swathed toque.

But to return to the relatives. They must remember that at a wedding everyone wants to get near the bride. It is the business, therefore, of the tactful relatives to see that she is not monopolised or "rushed," and that she has heaps of time to change.

A WEMBLEY DILEMMA.

Mrs. Smith, senior, the village oracle, aged seventy, and of unemotional appearance, sat alone in a field of clover. From the kitchen window her great-niece, Amelia Ann, eyed anxiously her elderly relative—a vision of brown alpaca embedded in feathery mauve and green.

Since the old lady's return the previous evening she had been a source of perplexity to the younger woman. To visit London for the first time and to have nothing apparently to say in answer to questions hurled breathlessly across the room seemed to Amelia Ann unaccountable.

The only solution possible was that her great-aunt was reserving her highly-coloured descriptions of glories witnessed for the tea-party due to take place that afternoon.

"Five minutes longer I'll give her," said Amelia Ann. "May have it she be thinkin' o' th' best way to make 'em go to Wembley, same as Squire wus hopin' as how she'd do."

To Mrs. Smith, senior, in the clover field the extra five minutes, however, conveyed no sense of advantage. She was no nearer the solution of the problem how to reconcile truth with duty than she had been since the recollection of this long-planned party had loomed before her memory as she alighted from the train the previous evening.

Quite as well as Amelia Ann did she realise the importance of this entertainment. "Now, Mrs. Smith, I look to you to give a great account of Wembley and London to old and young alike when you return," the old Squire had reminded her as he left for his shoot.

On her descriptions would depend the further enrichment of the Empire by the expenditure of a small part of carefully hoarded savings.

How then to explain that in a week of dizzy distances the only time that she had felt clear-minded enough to capture an impression of pleasure—let alone any more instructive one—had been one morning when Master George had taken her to see the country flowers fresh from their baskets at Covent Garden.

At this point in her reflections a breathless Amelia Ann rushed through the gate with the tidings that the visitors were coming along the lane. "It's that eager them is to hear o' Lunnun and Wembley," she gasped. "Ten minutes afore time, too."

Mrs. Smith, senior, rose heavily to her feet, glancing helplessly around the clover field as she did so.

Beyond the voice of her agitated niece she heard again Master George as the train steamed out of Paddington. "Just keep one picture in your mind, Nannie—London's morning face. Don't forget."

She had not forgotten. But how to tell her expectant guests that for her personally the glory of London began and ended with a market basket of stock-gillyflowers at Covent Garden.

NORTHERN WATER-WORKS SCHEME.

AN ENGINEER'S CLAIM.

At the Omagh Rural Council on Saturday, Mr. J. J. Fyffe, J.P. (Chairman) presiding, a letter was received from the Ministry respecting the claim of Mr. V. H. Murnaghan, C.E., for £129, as fees as engineer in connection with Fintona Waterworks scheme, stating that they saw no reason why Mr. Murnaghan should not be able to supply the information asked for by them as to the time he was employed at the scheme, and added that, until the information required by the Ministry was forthcoming, they would not be in a position to express any further opinion on the matter.

Mr. John D. Watson urged the Council to deal with this matter at once, and proposed that the Council pay Mr. Murnaghan £50 in settlement of his claim, subject to the approval of the Ministry.

Mr. Johnston seconded the motion, which was passed, it being stated that if Mr. Murnaghan declined to accept the £50 he must be prepared to furnish the items asked for by the Ministry.

RAILWAY STRIKE COLLAPSING.

MEN RETURNING TO WORK.

The only change in the strike at Inchicore Works, of the Great Southern and Western Railway Company, yesterday was the return to work of about twenty of the men. These men are stated to be members of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, and the National Union of Railwaymen. They did not consult the Irish Workers' Union before taking this action.

Strikers' pickets were on duty outside Kingsbridge during the day, but they did not interfere with traffic. Policemen were also on duty at the terminus. There was a rumour that delegates of the respective unions engaged at the Works were informed by the management that, if men were not prepared to work with any workers that the Company would employ, the works would be closed down, but that the goods and passenger services would be maintained. This was taken to mean that the tradesmen were expected to work with the men who replaced the strikers. Inquiry at the Company's offices failed to get any confirmation of the rumour. Mr. Birmingham, Irish Secretary, National Union of Railwaymen, said that he received no information on the subject from the Railway Company, but that the matter, of course, applied to the workshops. There is a feeling in Dublin that the strike is nearing the end.

CARTERS GOING BACK.

The strike of carters in the employment of Messrs. Wallis, who are contractors for the removal of merchandise, etc., to and from the Great Southern and Western Railway, underwent a change yesterday. Twenty of their carters returned to work. Between sixty and eighty men are still out, but they are not likely to remain on strike much longer. As a matter of fact, an Irish Times representative learned yesterday that Messrs. Wallis were working with nearly a full staff at Kingsbridge. At their Parkgate street Department, where 28 horses are kept, twenty were at work yesterday. It is thought that this strike will probably end to-day or to-morrow.

POSITION AT MARINO.

There was no development in connection with the Marino situation yesterday. When the Irish Times reporter visited the place about noon, only twenty or thirty men were employed. It is expected, however, that in a few weeks time a full staff will be employed.

RIOTOUS BELFAST EXCURSIONISTS.

DOZENS OF BOTTLES THROWN AT POLICE.

The story of a scene which occurred at Amiens street station, Dublin, on Sunday evening, before the return of a Belfast transport workers' excursion, was told in the Southern Police Court yesterday, when, before Mr. Collins, K.C., three men, named Peter Henderson, a knacker, 8 Cantoul street, Belfast; John O'Neill, labourer, 53 Rockville street, Belfast, and William J. Reilly, labourer, 47 Parkview street, Belfast, were charged by Station Sergeant Maher, C Division, Dublin Metropolitan Police, with being members of a violent and hostile crowd which assaulted the police and attempted to rescue prisoners from their custody.

The first case taken was that against Henderson, who was stated to have injured Constable Hussey, 57 C, so seriously by striking him with a bottle on the head that he was unable to be present to give evidence. Henderson was further charged with an assault on Constable Martin Kelly, 186 C, by throwing him to the ground and attempting to kick him.

Several constables gave evidence to the effect that trouble started between the excursionists and the police in Amiens street, and was continued to the platform, where Henderson threw a full porter bottle at Constable 57 C and seriously injured him on the head. It was further stated that Henderson threw another full porter bottle at Constable 29 A, but missed him. The crowd was declared to be very hostile, and Henderson was rescued three times before he was finally got to the police station.

Mr. Collins imposed a sentence of three months with hard labour on Henderson.

Giving evidence against John O'Neill, who was defended by Mr. J. V. Brady, solicitor, Constable 186 C stated that, while he was on the ground with Henderson, O'Neill threw a full bottle of porter at him but missed him. Henderson escaped and the witness caught O'Neill.

Constable 151 C corroborated, and said that about four dozen full bottles of stout or porter were thrown at the police——

Mr. Collins—Great goodness!

Mr. Brady—It must have been a regular riot.

Constable 151 C—It was very hot while it lasted.

O'Neill, giving evidence, said that the excursionists numbered about 2,000, and came in two trains. When going to the station he saw a crowd and the police with drawn batons in Amiens street. He got to the platform as quickly as he could, and denied having thrown a bottle.

The magistrate said that rescuing a prisoner was a serious charge, and he must return O'Neill for trial.

On the application of Mr. Brady, bail in £25 was allowed.

In the case of Reilly, Constable 69 C stated that when O'Neill was arrested the prisoner rushed at Constable 186 C and endeavoured to make him break his hold. The witness arrested Reilly, who, at the police station, said that he had no statement to make.

Constable 186 C bore out the evidence of the last witness.

O'Reilly, giving evidence on his own behalf, said that he had difficulty in finding his ticket when he reached the station, and while he was searching for it the police came along and arrested him. He said that he did not know a "hate" about the trouble, and added that, as he had been eighteen months in the National Army, he knew his duty to the police, with whom he denied any interference.

He was sent for trial.

Mr. J. W. Davis, solicitor, appeared for the police.

DUBLIN THEATRES.

A GEORGE EDWARDES PRODUCTION.

"Toni" is now well established as one of the most successful of the later musical comedy productions, under the auspices of the George Edwardes name. The company which brings the play to the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, is distinguished by the presence of Mr. G. S. Melvin, a clever comedian, who manages to make something of any part. Mr. Melvin revels in the excellent part of Toni, a gay youth, who is hardly less of a misfit in life as protector of an ill-starred Balkan Princess (in Act 2) than he was in Act 1 as proprietor of a failing modiste business. In Act 3, as, of course, in a well-regulated musical play, Toni finds his bed of roses, and obtains the reward due to a man who gets on so well with girls that he has frequently to dance with whole lines of them.

In the dancing acts Mr. Melvin has a certain amount of assistance from a number of well-groomed young men, who also dance in lines, moving up and down and right and left in such order as recalls the former days of the male chorus in musical comedy. In no play of this kind has the old flavour of the George Edwardes production at its prime been recognised so exactly as in "Toni." One almost expected to see Louis Bradfield come sauntering on.

After the first twenty minutes (during which the audience gets to know all about the affairs of his dressmaking business, and something about the affairs of the State of Mettopolachia), Mr. Melvin is almost continuously on the stage and providing the fun. He runs easily to burlesque, with fine touches, as when he quietly turns the ridiculous Tscharkeff's love-duet with Folly into a little burlesque of Russian ballet; or as when he follows the gesticulated orations of the three Mettopolachian politicians by a neat caricature of an amateur reciter in "Gunga Din." Every movement, every lift of an eyebrow or waggle of a foot, conveys a frivolous comment as he moves about the stage, turning everything to ridicule. He carries the same air of humorous expression into his neat dancing, and among the best bits of the performance are his dancing duets with Princess Stephanie (Miss Doris Bleach) and Folly (Miss Gladys Deane). Both these actresses are themselves very charming dancers, and both of them pleased with their singing as well as their dancing.

The music is all very light and bright. Songs follow one another rapidly, and it is hard to say which is the neatest and best of them. They are spicy rather than sweet, and sentiment comes in only to be whooshed away with mocking. Of the old pieces, perhaps "The Dollar Princess" is most often recalled by the songs and "business" of "Toni," but "Toni" has not even the few moments of serious sentiment that its forerunner had. It is all gay.

A figure of absurd gloom is introduced in the person of Von Koompf, a dark emissary of the Mettopolachian People's Party (Mr. Jack Latham), who is foil to the light-hearted throng: but he, too, is inveigled into a ridiculously solemn dance. Good play is made with the notion that Tscharheff (Mr. Frank Atkinson), a foreigner, who likes to parade his English speaking, has only the English that he has picked up from a slang-bound sporting man. "I love you," he tells Folly, "like—like Billy-oh!"

It is in accordance with the light mocking trend of the whole piece that one of the principal female parts should be a very stout and coarse good-natured woman—Toni's business partner, Camille. Miss Claire Romaine, by being thoroughly unladylike in this part, is a sporting contributor to the evening's fun.

Some pretty scenery, and the well-drilled movements of an adequate chorus, must have mention.

THEATRE ROYAL.

"Our Liz" lost no time in establishing herself in the good graces of large audiences last evening at the Theatre Royal, Dublin. She is the leading lady of a new musical comedy revue which is being presented for one week. It is far and away the best entertainment of its kind that has been shown here for some time, and it kept the audiences in a perfect ripple of laughter from start to finish.

The story is founded upon the giving of a dance party to his fellow-servants at Mannering Towers by the butler while their master, his sister and his son are away. There is but one exception to the butler's list of invitations, and that is Liz, whom he relegates to the pantry, and compels to wait upon all the rest. While the festivity is in full swing the son unexpectedly returns, and joins in the merry-making, much to the disgust of his father and aunt. In spite of their protestations he proposes to Liz, and promises to marry her.

In the second act the aristocrats are introduced to Liz's home in the Old Kent road, and here the exquisitely amusing scenes are enacted. No better comedy acting could be desired than that in which Jack Barty, as Alf Pickles (Liz's brother), Fanny Olive, as the mother, and Charles Paton, as the father, figure. We next see the party on the Riviera, and here, as throughout the piece, Miss Renee Reel (Liz) captivates both her lover, Geoffrey Mannering, and the audience. She is a versatile and vivacious artiste and a graceful dancer. She was given a cordial reception.

The other members of the company—George Manton (the butler), Leslie Hatton, Frank Adair, Miss Zerlina Harrington, Jack Kelly, James Grey, and Dorris Langford—are all very capable actors.

Miss Naomi Rosalie gave an accomplished violin recital.

The stage accessories are admirable, particularly that which represents the hotel on the Riviera.

ABBEY THEATRE.

The Abbey Theatre was almost filled last night, on the occasion of the first production of "Autumn Fire," a play in three acts, by T. C. Murray. The author has chosen the old theme of the love of a man for a woman, and has imbued it with joy, jealousy, suspicion, disillusionment, and a passion that fills it with vigorous life. The work is characteristic of Abbey drama; it blends light with shade, but at times the contrast is rather abrupt. In the first act, for instance, we have the jealous woman who reveals in a paroxysm of passion her disappointed hopes. In the second one feels that the author is master of genuine comedy. There are sparkling dialogues and witty passages, but when laughter is loudest it has not time to subside before one is suddenly pushed into the gloom of unhappy reflections. The third act is full of forebodings, and ends on the tragic note. The play, as a sample of dramatic art, is meritorious. It hangs well together, and is cleverly knit. The father of a son and a daughter is the suitor of the woman. The son is the rival of the father, but the choice of his heart becomes his stepmother. The fire of youth, nevertheless, burns in his breast, yet he consents to the pleadings of the old man's wife to quit the country. Then the parting kiss, and, last, the lonely man.

The acting was remarkably clever. Sara Allgood sustained a trying part throughout with great artistry. Perhaps it was the fault of the audience that she seemed a little indistinct at the opening. Eileen Crowe did a very great deal to add finish to the story, and Maureen Delany played with natural charm. Helen Cullen was very happy and delightful in a smaller part. Michael J. Dolan, both as the sprightly middle-aged farmer, and the broken-hearted old man, was very clever. Arthur Shiels, Barry Fitzgerald, and F. J. McCormick were also true to type.

At the conclusion of the play there were insistent calls for the author, who eventually appeared, and bowed his acknowledgment.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.

Dion Boucicault's "The Shaughraun" is performed at the Queen's Theatre this week. The "Shaughraun" is played by Peter McCormack, who in this part is in his element. He has an able partner in Lena Pembroke, who plays Moya. George Poole acts Captain Molyneux with skill. M. P. O'Flanagan (Robert Ffolliot), and Frank Dalton (Harvey Duff), are good also in their respective parts. The "Squireen" is well handled by Tom J. Powell, although it would be better if he emphasised the villainy a little more. For the success of the piece tribute also is due to May Fitzpatrick, Barry McDunphy, D. J. Davis, Gertie Pigott, Marie Sweeney, and Rose McDonnell. The general staging leaves little to be desired, and the orchestral items make a pleasant interlude.

OLYMPIA THEATRE.

Both "houses" at the Olympia Theatre last evening were well patronised, and the attraction, "Hot-Pot," described as "a revusical mixture," contained several "turns" which gave much enjoyment. There are fourteen scenes, and these are written and produced by Reg Bolton, whose clever and artistic arrangement enhances very much a good variety entertainment. A number of things come under review, such as a birthday party, an up-river scene, a tailor's shop, an asylum, and a boxing stadium, into each of which are introduced songs and instrumental music, dancing and humour. The settings of the scenes are picturesque, and the costumes dainty and bright. Choral items particularly were very well rendered, while the songs, "Chili Bom Bom" and "College Blues," by Nita Jarché and the Palladium Four proved very popular. Reg Bolton, as the Salesman, and Jack Dancisto, as the Customer in the tailor's shop scene, created a great deal of merriment, and again in the boxing match. Peggy Dallas appeared as the Queen of the Jazz, the Lady Quack, the Starving Woman, and the Patient's Wife.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

The "Tivoli Old Time Stars" are appearing at the Tivoli Theatre again this week. T. W. Royal gave an exhibition of clog dancing. The other members of the company sang the following songs:—Lily Currie, "Boyhood's Dream"; Marcus Boyle, "Never Know your Luck"; Lottie Lennox, "Old Green Bonnet"; Phil Herman, "Baby Patsey"; Florrie Gallimore, "My Girl is a Yorkshire Girl"; Cullen and Carthy, "Bill and Bob"; Ada Fawn, "Little Band of Gold"; J. W. Hall, "Looking for a House to Let." The other artists were Cathal MacGarvey, Irish humorist, who was very amusing in "Are you there, Moriarity"; Beaucaire and Partner, in comedy juggling, and Mark Wain, in a ventriloquial entertainment entitled "Listening in."

NORTHERN LICENSING ACT.

"A REAL DIFFICULTY."

An interesting point regarding the administration of the licensing laws was raised at the annual Licensing Petty Sessions at Sixmilecross, before Captain Gosselin, R.M., and Mr. E. S. Clarke, R.M.

Mr. Murnaghan, solicitor, appeared on behalf of Mr. P. J. Maguire, Sixmilecross, who carried on a mixed business, and asked the Court to refuse a renewal of the spirit licence on the ground that Mr. Maguire was not able to carry out the structural alterations required by the Licensing Act of 1923.

Captain Gosselin drew attention to Section 3 of the Act, from which it appeared that this question could only arise at the annual Sessions next to the date when the requirements for structural alterations came into force, which by Section 6 was the 1st of October, 1924, and accordingly it appeared that such application could not be made until September, 1925.

Mr. Murnaghan pointed out the position that his client would be in without making any application for renewal of the licence. The licence would in the ordinary course lapse on the 1st of October, 1924, but if he did not make the application to have the renewal refused he would not be entitled to compensation. To be able to apply in September, 1925, for the necessary order he would require to have the current licence for that year, whereas after 1st of October, 1924, he could not carry on the spirit business, as he would not have the structural alterations made, and apparently he could not open his business, which would be solely exclusive of spirit business, until ten o'clock each morning, and would run the risk of having his premises visited by police and the persons found on the premises prosecuted for being on licensed premises. He (Mr. Murnaghan) considered the point raised in this case as a very important one, which would affect a large number of publicans who were in doubt about the law.

District Inspector Gorman said that he agreed that the position was a peculiar one, and suggested that the Licensing Sessions might be adjourned for a month, and then the date provided for—the 1st of October—would have passed.

Captain Gosselin said that there appeared to be a real difficulty in this case, and he would be willing to adjourn the Licensing Sessions, but he doubted whether this would be effective or not. He was quite sure that there were a great many cases of these mixed trades where the parties expected the question would be dealt with at the present annual Licensing Sessions; but as the police made no objection the Court would renew all licences not objected to, and then after the 1st of October, 1924, the trouble would arise.

Ultimately an order was made adjourning the Licensing Sessions for a month, Captain Gosselin stating that he would look into the point raised.

Total supplies—390 beasts, 1,274 sheep and lambs.

BIRKENHEAD, Monday.—Supplies:—954 cattle and 2,723 lambs. Despite the fact that there was a shorter supply of cattle, trade continues slow, late rates governing most transactions. Best bullocks and heifers made 9½d., other classes 8¾d. to 9¼d., and cows and bulls 5¼d. to 7½d. Smaller supply of lambs. Good lambs on account of scarcity made 1/5; other sorts a bad trade at 1/2 to 1/4 per lb. sinking offal. Birkenhead Dressed Beef—Very slow trade was experienced, sides making 7¼d. to 8¼d. per lb.

LIVERPOOL, Monday.—WHEAT—American markets finished better than generally looked for, and, with reports of unfavourable weather in the Argentine, forward deliveries of wheat here showed a moderate improvement at the outset, further hardened on scarcity of sellers, and, though finishing under best owing to disappointing late afternoon cables, marked a liberal gain on the day. Graded wheat futures opened at ½d. per cental dearer, further improved until 1d. to 1½d. advance had been realised, then values receded somewhat, the market closing quiet at ½d. to 1d. per cental advance on the day. Maize options closed ¼d. to ½d. per cental over Saturday.

DEATH ON LEVEL CROSSING.

EVIDENCE IN CO. WATERFORD CASE.

At the inquest on Saturday evening at the Waterford Infirmary on the body of James Power, who died as the result of a collision between a motor car and level crossing gates, nearly all the witnesses were unanimous in expressing the opinion that where the accident occurred was the most dangerous turn in the County Waterford. The bend in the road at this point was described as a "double right-angled turn," the railway line passing between both angles of the bend.

Thomas Power, who identified the remains, said that the deceased man was looking after the gates for his father. He was aged 43 and unmarried.

Nicholas Casey, a farmer, of Fahagh, Kilmacthomas, said that he was near the railway crossing when his attention was attracted by two big lights approaching the gates. Just before the accident the lights suddenly turned the corner and he heard a crash. He next saw Power pinned under one of the gates. Power was crossing the line, apparently to open the gate, when he was struck down by the gate after the motor car had hit it. The shooting bolt of the gate was bent and the socket in the wooden gate post was burst by the impact of the car, which did not cross the railway line after the accident. The warning lights on the railway gates could not be seen before the bend in the road was rounded.

Permanent Way Inspector Batterbury said that the gates were 27-foot gates and each weighed 15 cwt. When he examined the gates on Saturday morning he found the shooting bolt bent and the socket of the gate post burst. If a person on the road, looking right ahead, wanted to see the warning lights on the gate he would require to be within fifteen yards of it.

Timothy Maloney, the driver of the motor car, said that the accident occurred at about 9.30. When within a couple of yards of the turn he sounded the horn. He saw nothing to indicate danger ahead, and when he turned the corner he was right on top of the gates. He put on both brakes immediately and just touched the gates as the car came to a stand-still. The impact was slight, and did not disturb his passengers. The gate swung back, and he then saw the deceased man under it. There was no damage to the car but a slight mark on the right front mudguard. Rounding the turn the speed of the car would be about ten miles an hour. The gate was so balanced that it would swing around with great force if merely pushed by the hand.

The medical evidence showed that the deceased man died from hemorrhage of the brain, following fracture of the skull.

The jury found a verdict of accidental death, exonerating the driver from blame, and recommending the erection of two warning road signals or the alteration of the bends in the road to suit the exigencies of modern traffic.

DONEGAL ASYLUM STRIKE.

NEW STAFF TO REMAIN.

At the meeting of the Committee of Letterkenny Mental Hospital, the report of the Resident Medical Superintendent on the general state of the hospital, the health of the patients, and the conduct of the staff since the last meeting, was considered satisfactory. The admissions were:—male 4, female 3. Discharges—male 1, female 2. Remaining—male 366, female 252. Same date last year—male 360, female 255.

A deputation was received from the Asylum Workers' Union, and Mr. O'Connor, the spokesman, suggested that the Committee should appoint three or four representatives to meet an equal number from the Workers' Union, and have a conference to fix the matters in dispute, without tying the hands of either side beforehand.

The suggestion was not agreed to by the Committee, who decided to adhere to their previous decision, turning down a conference. They expressed their willingness to meet a deputation with regard to matters such as pensions, etc.

Father O'Doherty (Chairman) said that the Committee did not intend to displace the new staff.

Mr. Gallagher said that that was a matter for the Resident Medical Superintendent.

Mr. O'Donnell—They acted in the ratepayers interests in reducing wages.

Mr. O'Connor said the members of the Committee were not consistent when voting on the County Council for increased pensions.

YOUNG WOMAN FOUND POISONED.

A young woman who was found at the Great Northern Hotel, Leeds, early on Sunday morning, suffering from carbolic acid poisoning, died in the Leeds Infirmary yesterday. She has been identified as Miss Helen Mary Hind, aged 32, who had been living in apartments at Heavitree, Exeter. She is said to have been a music mistress at a school in Surrey and was on vacation. Her relatives state that they do not know why she travelled to Leeds, but letters found in her room at the hotel indicate that she had been on friendly terms with someone in Leeds. An inquest will be held to-day.

ENGLISH MILK PRICES.

DAIRY FARMERS AND THE DISPUTE.

About one hundred and fifty delegates, representing forty-six county branches and numerous co-operative dairy societies, attended a conference of dairy farmers, organised by the National Farmers' Union in London yesterday, to consider the milk trade dispute. At the close it was anounced that the meeting unanimously endorsed the action of the producers' representatives on the Joint Milk Committee, in rejecting the proposals put forward by the distributive trade. All the county branches, it was added, were making plans for dealing with the situation when the present contracts ceased, and reports were made of assistance likely to be forthcoming from the farmers' co-operative societies.

When the information from county branches was complete, it would then be possible to indicate to branches the price that producers should be prepared to accept from milk buyers outside the Dairymen's Federation. It was hoped to negotiate an agreement for the sale of milk to the Industrial Co-operative Societies, and the Union's branches were making plans for as large a distribution of milk as possible to the public, but more particularly to hospitals and public institutions.

FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE.

OUTBREAK IN ESSEX.

The existence of foot-and-mouth disease was confirmed yesterday on a farm near Loughton, Essex. The total stock on the premises consists of 36 cattle, of which 10 were found to be affected with the disease. All the animals are being slaughtered. There has been no outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Essex since February last.

There is at the moment no information available as to the origin of this new outbreak, which appears to have existed for some days. It has consequently been necessary for the Ministry to make an order prohibiting the movement of animals in an area of about 15 miles radius around the infected farm.

The Irish Times.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1924.

NEWS SUMMARY.

IRELAND.

The North-Eastern Boundary Bureau yesterday issued a reply to Lord Birkenhead's letter regarding the meaning of Article XII. of the Anglo-Irish Treaty. The Boundary Commission, says the Bureau, is the only body that has the right to interpret the Article.—(Page 5.)

While a party of nine men and thirteen women were returning in a motor lorry from Dungarvan early on Monday morning the vehicle skidded and turned over. A youth named Michael Fahy was killed and several women were injured.—(Page 6.)

Twenty of the men who have been idle in consequence of the strike at the Inchicore Works of the Great Southern and Western Railway returned to work yesterday. Twenty of Messrs. Wallis's carters also resumed.—(Page 3.)

The unusually heavy rainfall on Sunday night flooded the basements of many buildings in Dublin. Serious damage was done to crops in several parts of the country, and in some districts a shortage of fuel is feared.—(Page 6.)

The Pembroke Urban Council yesterday gave its sanction to a scheme for the construction of a tunnel under the Liffey connecting Ringsend with the North side of the city at a total estimated cost of £25,000. The other contributing bodies are the Dublin Corporation and the Port and Docks Board.—(Page 5.)

GREAT BRITAIN

Speaking in Dundee last night, Mr. Ramsay Macdonald said that the virtue of hard work lay in the achievement of ideals. He urged his hearers to have faith in his pledges, but the corn could not be cut while it was green.—(Page 6.)

ABROAD

The attitude of the various nations towards the draft Treaty of Mutual Assistance is to be considered by the League before arbitration is discussed.—(Page 5.)

German Nationalists continue to urge the Government to issue the Note disclaiming responsibility for the war.—(Page 5.)

Telegrams from Shanghai state that the Second Chekiang Army has advanced towards Ihing, which is expected to fall to-day. Between eleven and twelve hundred foreign marines have been landed at the International Concession.—(Page 5.)

The American world fliers arrived at New York from Boston yesterday afternoon. Their landing was witnessed by the Prince of Wales.—(Page 5.)

SPORTING

At Folkestone yesterday Warrington won the Margate Handicap Hurdle Race.—(Page 8.)

FINANCIAL.

London Stocks were firm, but business was restricted owing to the commencement of the settlement.—(Page 9.)

Loans were in ample supply in Lombard street at 2⅞-3 per cent. The exchanges rallied slightly.—(Page 9.)

On Dublin 'Change Guinness Shares were heavily bought for both old and new account at a sharp advance. National Loan was lower.—(Page 9.)

The Boundary Crisis.

The anxiety of all the British parties for a settlement of the Irish boundary question is shown by their eager reception of the Earl of Birkenhead's letter to the Earl of Balfour. In this letter, written three months after he had put his signature to the Irish Treaty, Lord Birkenhead argued that Article XII. contemplated no large transfer of territory to either Irish State, but merely a rectification of the existing frontier. The letter allayed Lord Balfour's doubts effectually, and now the English Press—welcoming it as joyously as scholars would welcome the lost books of Livy—hopes that the doubts of Northern Ireland also will be allayed, and that Sir James Craig's Government will hasten to nominate a member to the Boundary Commission. The members of the Northern Cabinet will meet this week in London and, of course, will take Lord Birkenhead's letter into their considerations. It is probable, we think, that the hopes of English politicians and newspapers are doomed to disappointment. The Northern Government, like the Free State Government, is shackled with pledges and is forced by its extremists to make a fetish of consistency. It has declared again and again that it will not recognise the Boundary Commission, and Lord Birkenhead's letter—which, after all, is only a statement of his personal opinions—is not likely to alter its mind.

The Free State Government's attitude to Lord Birkenhead's resuscitated letter is definitely hostile. It insists that, whatever the English signatories to the Treaty may have intended, the Commission itself must readjust the frontier "in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants." Time passes and the situation becomes increasingly grave. Unless the Northern Government decides, at the eleventh hour, to appoint a member of the Commission, the Imperial Parliament will reassemble on September 30th and will complete the amending legislation which will enable the Boundary Commission to be established. It is very unlikely that the Bill will be resisted seriously in either House. Afterwards the corresponding legislation will be passed in Dail Eireann; the Commission will come into being and will get to work—probably not later than the first weeks of November. What will happen then? The best that can happen is suggested by Lord Birkenhead in the last sentence of his letter: "I have no doubt that the Tribunal, not being presided over by a lunatic, will take a rational view of the limits of its own jurisdiction and will reach a rational conclusion." It is quite certain that this conclusion will be rejected by one of the two Irish communities; possibly, both will reject it. The Marquis of Londonderry has no doubts on the matter. He said, last Saturday, that the Boundary Commission would not settle the Irish question and could serve only to widen the breach between North and South.

Lord Londonderry added that "the only chance of a possible solution" lay in Sir James Craig's offer to try to arrange a settlement with President Cosgrave "on the basis of mutual give and take." We agree heartily with this statement; but, if settlement is to be reached—or, rather, initiated—and if imminent danger is to be averted, the conception of "mutual give and take" must receive a liberal enlargement on both sides. It will be a dreadful thing if the two Governments allow themselves to blunder into a calamity of which, as we believe, both are equally afraid. Two things are certain. Settlement by agreement will become impossible from the day when the Boundary Commission begins to function. The mere process of ascertaining "the wishes of the inhabitants" on both sides of the border is likely to unloose passions that will banish reason and will give fatal opportunities to all the enemies of peace. Once these passions have been unloosed the economic conditions of both States will begin to suffer heavily—a menace which at this critical time both States must be anxious to defeat at almost any cost. When both have such vital interests in common and when national concerns furnish so many points of contact, it will be a tragic folly if they permit themselves to be kept apart now by any traditional antipathies or by any notion of standing on dignity. It may be that President Cosgrave is waiting for the promised legislation, and that, when the Boundary Commission is assured, he will say to Sir James Craig, "Now I am ready to talk to you about settlement." This assumption, however—even if we can entertain it—involves risks which patriotism and statesmanship ought not to incur. The sands are running out, and the supreme effort to secure agreement between the two Irish Governments ought not to be delayed by one unnecessary hour.

War in China.

Events are moving more rapidly in China than was anticipated. Lu Yung-hsiang, the Military Governor of Chekiang, claims to have routed the Kiangsu forces; and, although his claim probably errs on the side of optimism, there appear to be some grounds for it. Dr. Sun-Yat-Sen has declared his intention of marching from Canton to help him. This declaration is in answer to the mandate which has been issued by the Central Government at Peking, depriving Lu Yung-hsiang of his official rank and authorising Chi Hsih-yuan, the Military Governor of Kiangsu, to proceed against him. The action of the Peking Government is, perhaps, the most important event that has occurred up to the present, since it clarifies the issue and places Lu Yung-hsiang in the position of a rebel from the official point of view. A report from Shanghai states that Marshal Chang-Tso-Lin, the Mukden war lord and leader of the Anfu Party, has adopted Sun-Yat-Sen's attitude of defiance to General Wu-Pei-Fu, the Military Dictator of China and leader of the Chi-li Liberal Party. Wu-Pei-Fu has been making strenuous efforts to unify China, and is supporting Kiangsu because he hopes in this way to bring Chekiang into the fold, although he is inclined to be suspicious of Chi Hsih-yuan. In spite of this widening of the net of war, it is not expected that the conflict will be of long duration. Floods provide a constant menace to military operations, and funds are short on both sides. The Chinese are by nature a peaceful race, and have little stomach for the fight. It is reported that many of the soldiers already are firing aimlessly into the air. If the forces of Chekiang, which are numerically inferior, but have given evidence of better fighting qualities, are overcome, the unification of China through the medium of Wu-Pei-Fu might be brought a step nearer. He is, however, only on the threshold of this gigantic task, and there is little probability that he can command the resources necessary for its accomplishment. If the Great Powers decide to undertake the problem of unravelling the tangled skein, their difficulties will be hardly less formidable than those of the Chinese Government at Peking. It has been suggested that they should take action to arrange a conference of the various leaders in order to evolve a compromise. In this way it might be possible to patch up an agreement to establish a system of federal or federated States loosely held together under a common constitution. Lack of money constitutes the greatest obstacle to any form of government. The most hopeful solution that presents itself is international control of the Customs; but civil war must be stopped before foreign trade can revive sufficiently to make the Customs remunerative. Signs are not lacking that the Soviet Government may attempt to fish in the troubled waters of China. In the meanwhile there is no reason to fear for the safety of the foreign population of Shanghai. Adequate steps have been taken by the American, Japanese and European Governments to protect their own people within the possible range of hostilities.

Danish Disarmament.

The Socialist Government of Denmark proposes to do away with the Danish Army and Navy and to abolish conscription, restricting the defences of the nation to a few patrol boats and a small frontier force to cope with smugglers. This is expected to reduce the nation's expenditure on defence from £3,000,000 per annum to £600,000. The proposal will be resisted in the Upper House of the Legislature, and will be carried only if the Socialists can retain power for a number of years. Those who favour disarmament argue that, at the best, Denmark could not resist any of the great Powers by force of arms for long, and that the chief security for Danish independence must be public opinion. Denmark controls but slender interests overseas. The two West Indian islands formerly under the Danish flag have been sold to the United States. Iceland, though still acknowledging the Danish crown, has been declared independent, and looks after its own defences. Thus the Danes can cultivate their garden and ignore the cares which afflict nations less fortunately placed. They have made good use of their slender resources, and owe their prosperity to more than the accident of their situation. When a large portion of their territory was taken by Germany in 1866, the Danes set themselves to recover, from the wastes of Jutland, as much as they had lost. They planted trees, dug drains and reclaimed farmlands, making of what had been a wilderness the most prosperous of their provinces. By co-operative organisation, and a system of education that trained every child in rural pursuits, they set their country foremost among agricultural communities, and captured a market which would belong to Ireland if our people had equal energy and perseverance. In their towns the Danes brought electrical civilisation to as high a pitch of fine development as anywhere in the world. If to-day they can afford disarmament, they have at least deserved the luxury, although it remains to be seen whether the nations are ripe for even one little people's act of faith in their sense of justice.

The Age of Concrete.

Joseph Aspdin, a stonemason of Leeds, took out a patent for Portland cement just a hundred years ago. He seems to have discovered by accident that lime and clay, burned together and ground to powder, yield a material which, mixed with water, forms a hard, impervious substance resembling Portland stone. He strove to restrict the process to his own factory, and certainly he never guessed that his cement would be manufactured a hundred years later at the rate of fifty million tons a year. Since Babylon was built of mud no such plastic material has been used in great edifices as this material with which houses, churches, factories, towns, roads and even ships are built to-day. Portland cement, in the form of "reinforced concrete," has made it possible to build such vast edifices as the Stadium and palaces of Wembley in a few months. By virtue of its resistance to water, it is used to fortify the foundations of bridges and to repair sunken ships. Its fluidity renders possible the preservation of ancient buildings—as at Lincoln, where the fabric of the great cathedral has been saved by the pumping of concrete into cracks and crevices. The influence of the new material on the artistic aspect of the building art is not yet clearly defined. Of late, a style governed by the peculiar properties of steel and cement has begun to appear. While the prevalence of concrete buildings must reconcile us to the disappearance of many old and cherished beauties of building, a fresh, airy and light style may emerge, drawing its charm from spacious line and the revived use of colour.

HONE PICTURES.

NEW ROOM FOR NATIONAL GALLERY.

The reason for the exhibition (with a view to sale) of pictures and sketches by the late Nathaniel Hone, R.H.A., was explained to the Irish Times yesterday by Mr. Dermod O'Brien, President of the Royal Hibernian Academy. An advertisement in last Saturday's Irish Times stated that the pictures and sketches would be on view on week-days, commencing yesterday. They are being shown at Mr. O'Brien's residence, 65 Fitzwilliam square, Dublin, and from the hour appointed for the opening until the close of the day there were many callers at that address.

* * *

Mr. Hone was a steady and consistent worker during his long career as an artist. Sometimes far afield, but more frequently in the neighbourhood of his home at Malahide, he made innumerable sketches, and with equal regularity he produced finished pictures of varying size, recording in the bold and confident characteristics of his well-known style those expanses of sea and land and effects of cloud massing which continually engaged him. His pictures were not sold at anything near the rate at which they were produced, and at his death he left a large accumulation of pictures, besides many volumes of sketches done in water-colour.

* * *

His widow bequeathed all this material to the National Gallery, at the same time appointing Mr. Dermod O'Brien, Mr. W. Jameson (her brother), and Mr. Wilcox, an American artist, to make a selection of the pictures most suitable for retention by the Gallery. The will omitted, however, to declare what should be done with the residue left after these gentlemen had made the selection.

That open question was settled with the legatees by an arrangement that the pictures remaining after the taking of those required for the National Gallery should be sold for the benefit of the Gallery, with the specific object of adding to its premises a room suitable for the exhibition of the selected works.

* * *

The task of supervising the sale has been left to Mr. O'Brien, and to further it he has arranged a display of the pictures and sketches in the principal rooms of his house. Counting small with large, there are, perhaps, 300 paintings and sketches in oil and more than 500 water-colours. Nothing of Hone's water-colour work has ever been in the market before.

* * *

With regard to the permanent collection which is now in the possession of the National Gallery, Mr. O'Brien explained that the selection had been made with a view to preserving a fully representative collection for display in a special room in the Gallery in Dublin, and also retaining such a stock of smaller pictures and water-colours as would enable the Gallery to send out loan collections to other centres in Ireland where an Art Gallery or other suitable place existed.

* * *

As to the addition to the National Gallery of a new room for the Hone collection, Mr. O'Brien—who is, of course, a member of the Board of Governors—believes that such an addition ought to be part of a fully prepared general scheme of extension, and that the possibility of such extension ought to be given thought now, and a scheme prepared, so that necessary preliminaries may be carried out as occasions come. He added that the Director of the National Gallery had already given some consideration to that matter.

The pictures now for sale, although left aside by the selecting body, are not to be assumed on that account to be unworthy examples of the artist's work. Hone's output was remarkably consistent, and in taking pictures to form a representative collection the committee did not by any means exhaust the number of those pictures which are in Hone's best manner.

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

SUGGESTED TOUR OF THE WORLD.

With reference to the report in an American newspaper, that the Prince of Wales was contemplating a tour of the world, including a two months' visit to South America, next year, Reuter's Agency learns, in authoritative quarters, that this is regarded as extremely unlikely, in view of the fact that His Royal Highness will be proceeding to South Africa at the end of March or the beginning of April. This tour will extend over three months at the very least, and from this fact alone the other report would appear to be quite incorrect.

BRITISH GRAVES IN SOUTH AFRICA.

LADYSMITH, Monday.

Lord Burnham, interviewed by Reuter's Correspondent after visiting the battlefields of the South African War, paid a tribute to the Women's Association for seeing that the graves were so neatly kept and decorating all of them—both British and Boer—with flowers every year.—(Reuter.)

LONDON LETTER.

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S LETTER.

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
MONDAY NIGHT.

Lord Birkenhead's letter to Lord Balfour has created a great sensation in Conservative circles, and in many quarters a view has been expressed that the Northern Ireland Government may now find it possible to appoint a representative on the Boundary Commission. It is claimed that it would be impossible, in view of the document, that a Boundary Commission would take a dismemberment standpoint, and that, with Mr. Justice Feetham as its head, and capable representatives of Southern and Northern Ireland, it could be trusted to define a clear boundary which would be received with equanimity, if not enthusiasm, on both sides. Lord Birkenhead's letter was written as a purely private and confidential letter to a friend when all concerning the Free State Treaty was fresh in the mind of those who took part in its conclusion. It is possible that the letter may help to smooth the way to a new understanding of the whole situation, while in any event it is sure to have a very pronounced effect on the minds of Conservative members. The chance of a general election on the Irish boundary question has never been regarded as serious in any direction, and to-day the prospect of the Irish Bill, should it ever come before the House, being defeated is regarded as most improbable.

The Northern Cabinet.

Sir James Craig does not return from his Norwegian voyage before Wednesday, and on Thursday or Friday he is to hold a meeting of the Northern Ireland Cabinet at his home at Cleeve Court at Streatly-on-Thames. It is expected that all the members of his Cabinet will come over for the occasion, since a final decision, in all probability, will be taken as to the attitude of the Cabinet to the Boundary Commission. This meeting, however, is not a newly arranged one; for it had been proposed before the appearance of Lord Birkenhead's letter, but it is thought the letter may exercise some influence on its decisions. It is understood that after the meeting Sir James Craig will send a letter to the British Government giving the final decision of his Cabinet as to the appointment of a Commissioner. Should Sir James Craig find it possible to appoint a Commissioner, though at present there seems to be little prospect that he will, the special sitting of Parliament called for September 30th would be cancelled, and Parliament will not meet until the original date of October 28th. The suggestion is revived to-day that in the event of Parliament sitting and the Irish Bill coming before the House of Commons, a new clause might be inserted limiting the terms of the reference to be given to the Commission. Such a step, however, is out of the question; for the Bill is so worded that amendment of the kind proposed is impossible, and, if placed on the Order Paper, would be ruled out of order by the Speaker.

Free State Attitude.

The Free State view of the Commission, however, is one which must be taken into consideration. The Irish Treaty contains an explicit statement that a Boundary Commission is to be set up, and the statement contains nothing binding on the Commissioners, who are to decide in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants, while it gives no indication as to the intention of the British signatories that the Commission should deal only with trifling anomalies in the boundary. The Omagh Courthouse incident is recalled in connection with the letter of Lord Birkenhead. In a speech at that time he stated that such incidents would probably be averted when the boundary was properly defined—an attitude promptly questioned by Sir James Craig.

The Prime Minister.

The Prime Minister left London for Scotland this morning, first going to Dundee for a public engagement before proceeding to his home at Lossiemouth for a few days' rest. It is expected that he will be in London again next week, for there are many reasons why his presence is desired by his Government. It is recognised that with each succeeding day the feeling continues to grow against the Russian Treaty, and it is understood that the Government now begins to realise that a forced dissolution is by no means improbable. Mr. Ben Spoor, the Chief Government Whip, has found it necessary to break into his well-earned holiday and return to his office to deal with urgent and important matters, while he states that he intends to go to his constituency for a week of strenuous work. The indications at present are that the Government is preparing for a defeat on the Treaty and will accept the verdict of the House of Commons. This will entail a dissolution and a general election in the late autumn.

The Prince of Wales.

Little credence is given in official quarters to-day to the announcement from the United States that the Prince of Wales proposes to start in February on a trip round the world which will last nearly a year, and that he will spend two or three months in South America. The Prince has made arrangements to tour in South Africa for some months, and that will probably be the full extent of his journeyings abroad next year. It must be remembered that the Duke and Duchess of York will be away for some considerable period in the spring.

Vacancy on Bench.

The death of Mr. Justice Bailhache creates the first vacancy on the English Judicial Bench since the Socialists came into power. Sir Clement Bailhache, who had been on the Bench since 1912, and died at the age of sixty-eight, had the reputation of being the quickest judge. He possessed the great gift of getting to the heart of a case without delay, and, having arrived, he spoke his mind very clearly, thus tending to shorten proceedings considerably. He started life as a soldier, but was called to the Bar in 1889, and after a distinguished career in commercial cases he was given his judgeship at the early age of fifty-six. He was a great smoker, a bachelor, and, unlike most judges, he wore a beard. His death means that Lord Haldane will probably have to appoint three new judges before long. The establishment was already two judges short, while the work at the Law Courts is very much behind.

A Welcome Change.

After a hot and stormy night London to-day rejoiced in a bath of brilliant sunshine for some hours, and everybody seemed to be out and about enjoying the welcome change from gloominess and rain. The weather experts, however, decline to provide hope that the conditions of to-day are likely to continue, promising further rain and unsettled weather for some days to come. It was rather amusing to-day to notice that very few people were inclined to put faith in the fine turn in the weather, but carried waterproofs and umbrellas. The weather, in fact, has played so many strange tricks of late that it has quite lost the public confidence.

NEW CANON OF WESTMINSTER

The King has been pleased to approve the appointment of the Rev. Frederic Lewis Donaldson, M.A., Canon Residentiary of the Peterborough Cathedral, and Rector of Paston with Dogsthorpe, Gunthorpe, and Walton, to the Canonry of Westminster, rendered vacant by the appointment of the Rev. Canon Ernest William Barnes to the Bishopric of Birmingham.

MEANING OF ARTICLE XII.

BOUNDARY COMMISSION MUST DECIDE.

REPLY TO LORD BIRKENHEAD.

NORTHERN CABINET TO MEET ON THURSDAY.

In a document which it issued yesterday the North-Eastern Boundary Bureau, Dublin, says that the Boundary Commission is the only body that is entitled to interpret Article XII. of the Anglo-Irish Treaty.

Dealing with the Earl of Birkenhead's contention that nothing more than a rectification of the frontier was contemplated, the Bureau points out that the disputed article is almost identical with the article in the Treaty of Versailles under which the boundaries of Upper Silesia, East Prussia and Sleswig were determined, and that in these cases considerable transfers of territory were made.

The Cabinet of Northern Ireland will meet at Sir James Craig's residence near London on Thursday. Our Belfast Correspondent says that it is unlikely that there will be any change in its attitude towards the Boundary question as a result of Lord Birkenhead's letter.

COMMISSION'S TASK.

TO INTERPRET DISPUTED ARTICLE.

The following statement was issued by the North-Eastern Boundary Bureau, Dublin, yesterday:—

Lord Birkenhead's letter practically repeats his speech of April 30th, which was sufficiently answered by Mr. E. J. Duggan, one of the Irish signatories to the Treaty, on May 2nd. In view, however, of its many misleading statements, the following facts must be pointed out.

In the first place, neither Lord Birkenhead nor any other individual has authority to determine the interpretation of Article 12. Lord Birkenhead himself referring to this very matter said, on March 21st, 1922:—

"It is not for me or any member of this Government to lay down for the Tribunal to which we, in common with another set of persons, are the opposing litigants, canons or rules of construction. I have not the authority to do the one and I have not the power to do the other."

The Commission is the one and only body entitled to interpret the Article.

Lord Birkenhead refers to the Treaty of Berlin of 1879. It is significant that he does not refer to the Treaty of Versailles, with which he and Lord Balfour were both personally concerned. The Treaty of Versailles has an intimate bearing on the subject, since the clause in that Treaty relating to the drawing of boundary lines, as the result of plebiscites, were copied almost word for word in the Anglo-Irish Treaty. For instance:—

UPPER SILESIA:—Article 88. Annex 5.

"On the conclusion of the voting, the number of votes cast in each commune will be communicated by the Commission to the principal Allied and Associated Powers, with a full report as to the taking of the vote, and a recommendation as to the line which ought to be adopted as the frontier of Germany in Upper Silesia. In this recommendation regard will be paid to the wishes of the inhabitants, as shown by the vote, and to geographical and economic conditions of the locality."

EAST PRUSSIA:—Districts of Allenstein and Marienwerder. Article 95. Same wording as above.

SLESWIG:—Article 109.

"The frontier between Germany and Denmark shall be fixed in conformity with the wishes of the inhabitants."

Article 110:—

"The frontier line will be fixed by the principal Allied and Associated Powers, according to a line based on the results of the voting and proposed by the International Commission, and taking into account the particular geographical and economic conditions of the locality."

These were all cases in which considerable transfers of territory were made, and Lord Balfour's own statement on the decision in Upper Silesia, given on October 15th, 1921, will provide the best explanation of the principles on which the boundary was there drawn. He said:—

"The Treaty of Versailles lays down in quite unmistakable terms that the division of Upper Silesia should be in conformity with the wishes of the population as far as possible, but that account must be taken of industrial conditions. These two things are quite disparate considerations. They have no immediate relation with one another, but I think you can say with confidence that the Treaty of Peace put population first and industry second. There was a point at which the wishes of the population must give way to the needs of the district. But, on the whole, they desired that as far as possible the wishes of the population, as exhibited by the plebiscite, should afford the ground upon which the decision should be come to."

On the other hand, the Treaty of Versailles uses quite different phraseology in cases where mere delimitation of a boundary line already drawn in general outline by the Treaty was intended. For example, Article 87 on the Polish Boundary runs:—

"A Commission consisting of seven members, five of whom shall be nominated by the Principal Allied and Associated Powers, one by Germany and one by Poland, shall be constituted fifteen days after the coming into force of the present Treaty to delimit on the spot the frontier line between Poland and Germany. The decisions of the Commission will be taken by a majority of votes, and shall be binding upon the parties concerned."

If, as Lord Birkenhead suggests, the purpose of the Commission was mere delimitation of the existing frontier surely words akin to those just quoted would have been employed. On the contrary, the words in Article 12—"A Commission consisting of three persons, one to be appointed by the Government of the Irish Free State, one to be appointed by the Government of Northern Ireland, and one who shall be Chairman to be appointed by the British Government shall determine, in accordance with the wishes of the inhabitants, so far as may be compatible with economic and geographic conditions the boundaries between Northern Ireland and the rest of Ireland" are completely different to these, and almost exactly the same as those which deal with territorial re-arrangements by means of a plebiscite.

The latter part of Lord Birkenhead's letter states that no one ever put forward the larger view of the functions of the Commission till Mr. Collins did on the 3rd September, 1922. This is entirely contrary to fact, as is seen from the following quotations. Speaking on December 6th, 1921, Lord Birkenhead himself said:—

"There is one important reservation to be made in the paramount interests of peace. If Ulster elects to remain more closely associated with us, there must, in our judgment, be a rectification of frontiers. We do not propose to interfere with the arrangement of a year ago in relation to two counties, but we propose that a Boundary Commission shall examine into the boundary lines, with a view to rendering impossible such an incident as that of a few days ago, in which the popularly elected bodies of one or two of these districts were excluded from their habitations by representatives of the 'Northern' Parliament on the ground that they were not discharging their duties properly."

The elected body to which Lord Birkenhead referred was the County Council of Tyrone, suppressed by the Northern Government three days previously. If such incidents were to be avoided, that implied the transfer by the Commission of County Tyrone. This, on Lord Birkenhead's own showing, would also imply the transfer of County Fermanagh, which would be left an "island" entirely surrounded by Free State territory. Thus, the first person to give currency to what he now holds to be an incorrect view was Lord Birkenhead himself.

This was made plain in a letter from Sir James Craig to Mr. Lloyd George on December 14th, 1921.

". . . At our meeting on December 9 you explained that it was only intended to make a slight readjustment of our boundary line, so as to bring into Northern Ireland loyalists who are now just outside our area, and to transfer correspondingly an equivalent number of those having Sinn Fein sympathies to the area of the Irish Free State. The Lord Chancellor's speech, however, has given encouragement to those endeavouring to read into it a different interpretation."

A statement in the speech of Mr. Lloyd George in the House of Commons on December 14th is even clearer.

"There is no doubt, certainly since the Act of 1920, that the majority of the people of two counties prefer being with their Southern neighbours to being in the Northern Parliament. Take it either by constituency or by Poor Law Union, or, if you like, by counting heads, and you will find that the majority in those two counties prefer to be with their Southern neighbours. What does that mean? If Ulster is to remain a separate community, you can only by means of coercion keep them there, and, although I am against the coercion of Ulster, I do not believe in Ulster coercing other units."

Again, on the following day, Colonel Gretton summed up the situation as follows:

"Under these Articles of Agreement there is to be a roving Boundary Commission to deal with any part of the boundary between North and South without limitations except in regard to two matters, whatever may be meant by the words 'compatible with economic and geographic conditions.'"

All these statements were made prior to that of Mr. Michael Collins. As regards the latter's statement, it is merely necessary to add that he was expressing the view of his Government, which has been adhered to by all subsequent Irish Governments.

NORTHERN CABINET.

MEETING IN LONDON ON THURSDAY.

Sir James Craig, whose health has benefited greatly by his cruise in the Baltic, will arrive in London on Thursday.

A meeting of the Cabinet of Northern Ireland will be held at Cleeve Court, Streatley-on-Thames, Sir James Craig's English residence, on Thursday evening. This meeting was arranged some weeks ago in order that Sir James might be fully informed at the earliest possible moment of the changes that have taken place in the political situation during his absence

No doubt, Lord Birkenhead's letter on the meaning of Clause XII. of the Anglo-Irish Treaty will be discussed, but our Belfast Correspondent says that it is not likely that there will be any alteration in the attitude of the Northern Government on the boundary question.

Writing last night the Political Correspondent of the Central News says:—A disposition in London political circles to-night to assume that the Northern Government will appoint a Boundary Commissioner must be received with caution. There is no certainty in the matter.

The conference on Thursday will be purely an Ulster conference. Mr. Baldwin is at Aix, and there could be no intervention on the part of British Unionists in his absence. It would appear, however, as if the prevailing opinion in British Unionist ranks would welcome a decision by the Northern Government to appoint a member to the Boundary Commission. This feeling has been powerfully influenced by the publication of Lord Birkenhead's letter, which is held to be conclusive evidence that the Treaty makers contemplated only such minor rectifications of the frontier as Northern Ireland has contended were meant, and, therefore, Northern Ireland, it is believed, could now safely trust herself to the Commission in the full faith that there can be no findings involving dismemberment of her territory.

Sir James Craig's personal position, however, is a delicate one, unless there can be certainty that no considerable transfer of territory, such as the Free State expects, can possibly be recommended. There is, in short, no warrant yet for assuming that the Northern Ministers will modify the position that they have hitherto maintained.

If they did agree to appoint a Commissioner, a dramatic change would be wrought in the Parliamentary situation. It would no longer be necessary for Parliament to assemble on September 30th.

FREE STATE'S CASE.

STATED BY MR. O'HIGGINS.

Mr. Kevin O'Higgins, in an article which is published in to-day's Daily Express, insists on the right of those in Northern Ireland who desire inclusion in the Free State to be so included.

"In considering the question of the boundary," he says, "one must take account neither of 'Ulster' and the rest of Ireland, nor of 'Northern' and 'Southern' Ireland, but of the Irish Free State and a certain artificial unit within it. This consists of six counties, over which, by agreement embodied in the Treaty (Article XI.), 'the powers of the Parliament and the Government of the Irish Free State' were 'not to be exercisab'e' pending certain developments.

"The reference to the six counties as an artificial unit 'within the Irish Free State' seems to require substantiation. It will be found in the first Article of the Treaty." After quoting from the Treaty, Mr. O'Higgins says:—"The bargain stands clear on the face of the Treaty. The people of Great Britain ought not to allow themselves to be misled by catch-cries, or blinded by ancient passions or prejudices to a realisation of its exact nature. The Irish signatories agreed that compulsion should not be used to keep within the Irish Free State areas whose inhabitants were predominantly averse to such inclusion. The British signatories, on their side, agreed—and surely it was a just and reasonable agreement—that areas whose inhabitants desired such inclusion should not be forcibly kept out.

"Partition in any form is now, and always has been, hateful to the vast majority of Irishmen, but if there is to be partition, it must be a partition for which better and sounder reasons can be urged than any that have yet been pleaded in defence of the existing boundaries. As the only alternative to using compulsion on brother Irishmen to force them into our State system, we agreed to place the onus on a tripartite Commission of arriving at a boundary defensible on the basis of the wishes of the inhabitants, corrected where necessary by economic and geographic considerations. We did not agree, and never would have agreed, to the compulsory exclusion from our State of large masses

AMERICANS FINISH WORLD FLIGHT.

GREAT RECEPTION AT NEW YORK.

PRINCE OF WALES A SPECTATOR.

BOSTON, Monday.

The American world fliers left for New York shortly after noon to-day.—(Reuter.)

NEW YORK, Monday.

The American world fliers arrived here at seven minutes past three o'clock this afternoon. The aeroplanes were saluted by the guns at the battery, and steamboats whistled along the whole length of Manhattan Island.

Then the airmen wheeled over Brooklyn, reaching Mitchell Field at 3.31 p.m.

The Prince of Wales shared the honours with the airmen at the aviation field. He arrived in good time, and occupied a place on the platform with Sir Esmé and Lady Howard and other well-known people.

A salute was fired as the aviators, with a score of other aeroplanes escorting them, came to earth. The Prince joined with the fifteen thousand persons present in waving his hat in honour of the American airmen's great achievement.—(Reuter.)

EGYPT AND THE SUDAN.

BRITISH PREMIER AND ZAGHLUL PASHA.

KHARTOUM, Monday.

Sayed el Mirghani publishes a statement in the local Arabic Press to the effect that no political or other meeting has been held by the Sudanese chiefs, nor did any of their women folk intend to organise demonstrations. The Sudanese who was arrested for addressing the people from the roof of a Mosque, and calling upon them to begin a holy war, has been certified as insane.—(Reuter.)

CAIRO, Monday.

Mr. Clark Ker visited the Acting Premier this morning, and conveyed to him the contents of Mr. Macdonald's communication to Zaghlul Pasha. It is understood that the British Premier stated that he had learnt, with sincere regret, from Zaghlul's Pasha's letter of August 29th, that negotiations could not take place, but was happy at the indication given by Zaghlul Pasha that they could, nevertheless, try to dissipate the cloud which was unfortunately covering Anglo-Egyptian relations, especially since recent events in the Sudan. Mr. Macdonald added that he had a lively desire to contribute to the re-establishment of a spirit of good-will, and would therefore, be pleased to meet Zaghlul Pasha in London towards the end of September.—(Reuter.)

The Press Association learns that a meeting has been arranged between the Prime Minister (Mr. Ramsay Macdonald) and Zaghlul Pasha, and that it will take place in London.

O'DWYER-NAIR CASE.

INDIAN GOVERNMENT WILL NOT PAY DAMAGES.

SIMLA, Monday.

Replying to questions in the Legislative Assembly, Sir Alexander Muddiman, Home member, said that the Government had given no assistance to Sir Sankaran Nair in publishing his book. Both Sir Sankaran Nair and Sir Michael O'Dwyer had been supplied with official documents, but the Government had incurred no expense, and would not pay the £500 damages awarded against Sir Sankaran Nair. Sir Michael O'Dwyer had not consulted the Government of India before filing his suit.

Sir Basil Blackett, the Finance member, said that the Government saw no reason for revising its opinion or its policy.—(Reuter.)

INDIAN RAILWAYS.

THE GOVERNMENT SCHEME APPROVED.

SIMLA, Monday.

Considerable interest attaches to the Central Railway Advisory Council's decision, approving the Government scheme for the separation of railway finance from general finance, following upon the assurance given by Mr. Innes, the Commerce member of the Viceroy's Council, in response to the Indian members' demand regarding the Indianisation of the railway services and the purchase of railway stores in India. The majority of the members of the Advisory Council were also members of the Special Committee of the Legislative Assembly, which last week rejected the separation proposals. The position regarding this vital question is, therefore, altered, and the Assembly may now agree to the proposal when it is discussed on the 15th inst.—(Reuter.)

AFGHAN SITUATION.

REPORTED NEGOTIATIONS FOR PEACE.

PESHAWAR, Monday.

Reports are current that a truce has been declared in Khost, and that negotiations for peace between the Afghan officials and the rebel leader are on foot.—(Reuter.)

NEW GUINEA NATIVES.

ALLEGATIONS DENIED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

Senator Pearce, Minister for Home and Territories, says that the allegations published in an English journal regarding the treatment of natives in New Guinea by the Australian Administration are merely a rehash of articles in a Sydney Labour newspaper. They relate to events which are alleged to have happened before the inquiry made by Mr. Canning, on behalf of the Commonwealth Government, as a result of which he reported that the evidence failed to support the allegations.—(Reuter.)

of Nationalist population who desire to be included.

"Sir James Craig has told us that he is at all times willing to confer with us and to endeavour to agree, provided always that the idea of a Boundary Commission is abandoned, and that wherever there is disagreement the last word rests with him and his Government. A conference on those conditions holds no attractions, and has no possibilities of usefulness. We regard our position as one of trusteeship for those inhabitants of the present area of jurisdiction of the Northern Government to whom definite rights were secured by the Treaty which our plenipotentiaries and the British plenipotentiaries signed, and which both Parliaments endorsed. If Sir James Craig will confer with those people and convince them that 'what is, is best' we will be entirely satisfied. Pending such a development, we have neither the will, nor do we regard ourselves as having the power, to do anything to lessen or to alter those rights."

A BOUNDARY MEETING.

In the course of an address to a meeting held last Saturday to discuss drainage questions in the Newbliss area, Mr. P. Duffy said that he had to give the people of Monaghan and the boundary counties of the Free State a message to the effect that Mr. Blythe, Minister of Finance, had decided to hold a public meeting in County Monaghan at an early date to give the people an opportunity of hearing a very important pronouncement on the boundary question.

TOUR OF THE BORDER.

The British members of Parliament who are touring the Northern border arrived in Derry yesterday by char-a-banc. They stopped in Derry overnight as the guests of prominent local Unionists. They were entertained to luncheon by Sir Robert Anderson, member of the Northern Parliament, and they met a number of prominent Unionists. They were also received by the Mayor (Alderman Moore). To-day they go to Sion Mills.

CHINESE WAR.

ADVANCE OF CHEKIANG ARMY.

SHANGHAI MENACED

1,100 FOREIGN MARINES LANDED.

The advance of the Chekiang Second Army, twenty thousand strong, threatens Ihing, which is expected to fall to-day.

Fighting has taken place at Linho, but the position there is said to be unchanged.

Between eleven and twelve hundred foreign marines have been landed at the International Concession, Shanghai, and the Volunteers have been mobilised in view of the growing menace to the Northern borders of Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Monday.

A communiqué issued by Lu Young-Hsiang, Military Governor of Chekiang, states that the Chekiang Second Army, comprising 20,000 men, advanced yesterday morning from Changhing, ten miles south-east of the Tai Hu Lake, in the direction of Ihing, 30 miles northward.

A report was received this morning that the Chekiang forces are only ten miles from Ihing, and expect Ihing to fall to-morrow. Their main objective is believed to be Chang-Chow, which is the Kiangsu headquarters. There have been attacks and counter-attacks at Liuho, where, the communiqué says, the position remains practically the same. Fifteen hundred more reinforcements have been sent to Liu-Ho from Shanghai.

Owing to the growing menace to Woosung and the Northern borders of Shanghai, on account of the situation in the Liu-Ho sector, the Shanghai Volunteers were mobilised at six o'clock this morning, while between 1,100 and 1,200 British, American, Japanese and Italian Marines landed at the International Concession this morning. This is the first landing of foreign troops at the International Concession since the war began.—(Reuter.)

PEKIN, Monday.

The British, American, French, Italian and Japanese Ministers have sent a further Note to the Chinese Foreign Office, respecting the necessity of establishing a neutral zone on the Huangpu River, on which Shanghai is situated.—(Reuter.)

EFFECT OF PRESIDENTIAL MANDATE.

PEKIN, Monday.

The Presidential mandate, dismissing Lu-Yung-Hsiang, the Chekiang Military Governor, and ordering Chi-Hsieh-Yuan, the Klangen Military Governor, to suppress the rebels, brings the Pekin Government officially into the war, and involves the full support of the Chihli Party.

Chang-Tso-Lin has hitherto been able to regard the quarrel between Chekiang and Kiangsu as an affair of these two provinces, but he now knows that his political opponents are on the war path and endeavouring to subdue his principal ally. He yesterday formally told the Consuls at Mukden that in consequence of the measures taken by the Government, hostilities were inevitable. His real intentions will be made manifest by his actions.

The fighting near Shanghai has not been of a serious nature, and probably Chi-Hsieh-Yuan is reserving his main effort until the troops and materials going to him from other provinces are available.

Sun-Yat-Sen has commenced to blow his trumpet, but until the rival military elements in Kwangtung undergo a miraculous change of heart there is small prospect of any concerted action from that direction.—(Times Telegram.)

MYSTERIOUS EPIDEMIC.

NEW DISEASE IN NORWAY.

CHRISTIANIA, Monday.

A strange, and, so far as can be ascertained, hitherto unknown disease has made its appearance in the Namdal, the picturesque valley of the Namsenely, the well-known salmon river that flows out to the sea through the Namsenfjord, in Northern Trondhjem. The malady is highly contagious, and a doctor from the Namdal who contracted it, on being removed to hospital here, conveyed the contagion to one of the hospital surgeons, and several nurses. The authorities are taking sanitary measures to prevent the spread of the epidemic. The principal symptom is the subcutaneous extravasation of blood, declaring itself outwardly in the form of small blood-coloured spots on the skin. The general health and energy of the patient do not seem to be affected.—(Reuter.)

BOLSHEVIST ACTIVITY.

HELP FOR UNFORTUNATE REVOLUTIONARIES.

RIGA, Monday.

According to the latest official report, the Bolshevist Revolutionary Society, known as M.O.P.R., last week despatched over 40,000 dollars abroad, to assist the unfortunate revolutionaries who have come into collision with the local authorities while carrying out the Third International's campaign against existing foreign Governments. The society for collecting claims for damage caused by the Entente's intervention in Russian internal dissensions, estimated that altogether they will collect more than two million claims.—(Reuter.)

OPERATIONS IN MOROCCO.

REPORTED REBEL SUCCESS.

GIBRALTAR, Monday.

It is reported from Tangier that the railway between Ceuta and Tangier has been cut, and that the raiders have torn up the permanent way for a distance of a mile, cutting the telegraph and telephone lines. It is added that the post of Bendiah has been taken.—(Reuter.)

MADRID, Monday.

The following communiqué, regarding the fighting in Morocco, was issued here to-day:—

"In the western zone a convoy proceeding to the Benisalah position was attacked by a body of the enemy which threatened its left flank, guarded by a machine-gun section of the Legion. The enemy was repulsed with heavy loss after a brilliant bayonet charge by a company of infantry. We had sixty men wounded, mostly slightly. The troops marched back to Tetuan in high spirits.—(Reuter.)

MR. THOMAS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

TRIBUTE TO GENERAL HERTZOG.

JOHANNESBURG, Monday.

Mr. J. H. Thomas, the Colonial Secretary, and Sir Douglas Hogg were the guests of honour at a lunchoen given by the municipality to-day. Mr. Thomas commented on the fact that General Hertzog was accompanying him to Maseru to-morrow, as an indication not only of the Prime Minister's kind personality and hospitality, but also of his recognition of the fact that South Africa's future was dependent on the future prosperity of the great Commonwealth of Nations, of which South Africa was a part.—(Reuter.)

MODERN DANCING CONDEMNED.

QUEBEC, Monday.

The proposed dance on a French man-of-war in the port has been cancelled, because of the opposition of the local Roman Catholic authorities, who state that the attitude of the Church in banning modern dancing is unchanged. A similar proposal to hold a dance for the British warships, which were recently in the port here, was condemned by the Hierarchy of the Church.—(Reuter.)

RIVER LIFFEY TUNNEL.

A £25,000 SCHEME.

RINGSEND TO CONNECT WITH NORTH WALL.

The Pembroke Urban District Council yesterday, by six votes to four, sanctioned the proposal to construct a tunnel between Ringsend and the North side of the River Liffey, the estimated cost of the scheme being £25,000, to be borne by the Dublin Corporation, the Port and Docks Board, and the Pembroke Council.

In a letter to the Council from the Town Clerk of Dublin, it was stated that conditions had been provisionally agreed to between the Corporation and the Port Board, when it was proposed that Pembroke should contribute £8,333 6s. 8d. (one-third of the total cost), provided that any person using the tunnel should not be charged more than one halfpenny.

The Chairman (Mr. B. O'Connor) said that the proposal had been approved by the Finance Committee, and that he thought the tunnel would be a useful acquisition to the township.

The Clerk said that the money required would be obtained by loan on long terms, and would amount to about 1d. in the £.

Mr. Byrne said that he feared that the scheme would not be of any benefit to Pembroke. The object of it was to facilitate the Corporation to get their mains across the river.

A resolution proposed by Mr. Greene, and seconded by Mr. Maguire, that the question be postponed for three weeks, was defeated by six votes to five.

NEW CHILEAN MINISTRY.

PRESIDENT HAS NOT RESIGNED.

SANTIAGO DE CHILE, Monday.

Congress is meeting to-day, and the new Ministry is appearing before it. Various measures embodying reforms are indicated by the Government. A draft programme of these measures was, it is understood, presented to Ministers by the Military and Naval Committee, which represents the entire armed force of the country. The report that Senor Alessandri has resigned the Presidency of the Republic is inaccurate.—(Reuter.)

OPPOSITION TO GERMAN LOAN.

ATTITUDE OF MIDLAND MANUFACTURERS.

The Midland branch of the Union of Manufacturers, meeting at Birmingham yesterday, condemned the proposed loan to Germany, and urged that no financial assistance should be forthcoming until the population of Germany was taxed at least as heavily as the Allies. The meeting also considered that no question of a loan to Russia should be entertained, pending a satisfactory guarantee that Russia's past obligations to this country would be honoured.

NEW ZEPPELIN'S TRIP.

STOWAWAYS TO BE DROPPED OVERBOARD.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Monday.

The test flights of the ZR 3, America's new dirigible, have proved so satisfactory that the experts have tentatively fixed September 20 as the date for the start of the big flight across the Atlantic to Lakehurst, New Jersey. If everything is not in readiness for this date, October 1 is suggested as an alternative.

Officers of the Zeppelin factory, in which the ZR 3 has been constructed, announce that any stowaways found on board after the airship starts on the Atlantic trip will have a parachute attached to them and be gently deposited overboard.

Thousands of applications have been received from persons who desire to make the voyage, and the Zeppelin officials believe that numerous pretexts will be resorted to by stowaways in an endeavour to secrete themselves somewhere in the interior of the framework of the dirigible before she starts. Therefore, they are determined to use every precaution.

GEORGIAN REVOLT.

MESSAGE TO MR. MACDONALD.

Reuter's Agency is informed that the following telegram was sent to Mr. Ramsay Macdonald while he was in Geneva by the President of the National Government of Georgia—

"The Georgian people, reduced to despair by the three years' oppression of the occupying Power of Moscow, has risen in arms to establish its national independence and liberty. For the last ten days fighting has been going on through the entire country between the people and the Russian Soviet troops. In the name of martyred Georgia, I beg you to urge the Moscow Government to stop this bloodshed, and settle the conflict by arbitration, in a peaceful manner."

The following telegram has been received from Constantinople, in Georgian circles:—

"In the regions of Kutais, Svanethie, Lechkoum, Chiatouri Sharapani, Gori, Doucheti, Ozourguethi, and Senaki the Georgian people is in insurrection, and has expelled the Russian occupation power. Fighting is taking place in the vicinity of Tiflis, where the workmen are all on strike. The occupation troops are carrying out sanguinary reprisals against the strikers and sympathisers with the insurrectionary movement.—(Reuter.)

THE PRICE OF COAL.

NO JUSTIFICATION FOR INCREASED RATES.

Mr. A. J. Cook, Secretary to the Miners' Federation, in an interview yesterday, declared that there was absolutely no justification for an increase in the price of domestic coal, so far as the direct cost of production at pits was concerned.

During the past two months wages in the coalfields had decreased, and the blame for increased charges must be put upon shoulders other than those of the miners, who were in no way responsible for the robbery of the people by the extravagant prices at present being charged.

INTERNATIONAL LAW.

CONFERENCE AT STOCKHOLM.

STOCKHOLM, Monday.

The thirty-third Conference of the International Law Association was opened to-day in the presence of the King of Sweden, the Crown Prince and Princess, the members of the Cabinet and the Diplomatic Corps. Four hundred delegates were present.

The Prime Minister, Dr. Trygger, speaking in English, dwelt on the dominant influence of law among the nations, which ensured national and international righteousness. The aim of the Association, he said, was to make international laws a living reality.

The Governor of Stockholm, Mr. Hederstierna, speaking in French, welcomed the members of the Conference to the city.

Replying on behalf of the British and American members, Lord Phillimore paid a tribute to Sweden's active share in the pursuit of international justice.

The representatives of the French and German delegates also spoke.—(Times telegram.)

BRITISH MINISTER TO SWEDEN.

STOCKHOLM, Monday.

King Gustav to-day received Sir Arthur Grant Duff, who presented his Letters of Credence as British Minister to Sweden. Sir Arthur was afterwards received by the Crown Princess, on behalf of the Queen.—(Reuter.)

TO-DAY'S LONDON PAPERS.

THE FORMULA AT GENEVA.

THE PROBLEM OF SECURITY

The Times, in a leading article dealing with the provisional agreement reached at Geneva by M. Herriot and Mr. Macdonald, observes that this new agreement bears on that very important question of security which the two Prime Ministers decided in those ardent conversations at Chequers some time ago to refer to the League of Nations. If the first and third Commissions, proceeds The Times, can solve the problem of reconciling the principle of compulsory arbitration with some definite plan of guarantees for security, then the League of Nations is to convene an International Conference on Armaments. There seems to be a remarkable incompatibility between those forms of aggression of which we have had a very recent experience and the suggestions for eliminating war that are adumbrated in the resolution of the League. These suggestions deserve every encouragement. They are a hopeful element in this critical time.

It must, however, be recognised that the decisions of the League of Nations on security have nothing like the same concrete reality, the same direct bearing on the burning political problems of Europe, as the decisions of the London Conference on reparations. Mr. Macdonald's first speech last week suggested that his own philosophy, or rather, perhaps, his own emotional attitude on the whole subject of security, differed profoundly from that of the nations and individuals who had taken an intimate part in the war. The problem of security is not an abstract question to be solved by general formulas, but a very concrete problem determined by geography and population, and limited for our generation in time and space. It is for that reason that general phrases about the admission of Germany and Soviet Russia to the League, and about their co-operation in the work of peace, may for a moment satisfy a dreamy few, but cannot allay the misgivings of the great and still anxious multitudes.

It is noteworthy that the deliberations in Geneva were very nearly wrecked by a rumour that the German Government were preparing to repeat their recent extraordinary assertion that Germany was not responsible for the war. It is the experience of the recent war that dominates all conceptions of war and peace at this moment. The most persistent memory among all the Allied peoples is that of German aggression.

THE MOROCCAN CAMPAIGN.

SPANISH TROOPS HEAVILY ATTACKED.

The Times Tangier Correspondent telegraphed yesterday:—The Spaniards are constructing small fortifications and blockhouses along the banks of the War Martin, a river which flows through the valley below the walls of Tetuan. The suburb of Quitzan has been reinforced, but an attempt to place a post at Beni Salah, less than two miles from the town, failed, though the Spanish troops, by an admirable effort, managed to save their machine guns. The commanding officer was amongst the killed. Latest news from Tetuan states that the troops under the command of General Queipo de Llanz, advanced to Dar Ben Karrich, about five miles from Tetuan. The column spent the night there, proceeding the next morning to meet the column of General Riquelme retiring from the Sheshuan direction from his base at Sok el Arba, an important position, about half-way between Tetuan and Sheshuan, on the main road. The two columns, after meeting, retired to Dar Ben Karrich, suffering serious losses, as they were heavily attacked. General Riquelme's column had been completely cut off from the Tetuan base for some days.

It is presumed, for the official communiqué is not clear on the subject, that Sok el Arba has been completely abandoned, in which case no Spanish force exists on the Sheshuan road between Dar Ben Karrich, five miles from Tetuan and Sheshuan itself. It must, therefore, be inferred that Sheshuan, with its Spanish garrison, is isolated and surrounded by the enemy. Raisuli's levies were also camped at Sok el Arba. What has become of them? Recently there were rumours of many desertions amongst these native contingents.

WAR GUILT DENIAL.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT'S INTENTION.

Telegraphing from Berlin yesterday, The Times Correspondent states:—It is officially announced to-day that the Government will take no steps to bring the declaration denying Germany's responsibility for the war, foreshadowed in its Proclamation of August 29, to the notice of foreign Governments until a Cabinet meeting has been held to decide the date of notification and the form which it shall take.

The Chancellor, Herr Marx, and the Foreign Minister, Herr Stresemann, are both expected to break their holiday in order that the Cabinet may assemble for this purpose early next week.

ZAGHLUL PASHA'S DECISION.

TO MEET MR. MACDONALD IN LONDON.

The Times Correspondent at Alexandria telegraphed yesterday:—This morning the Acting High Commissioner called upon the Acting Prime Minister, and communicated the contents of a letter which Mr. Macdonald addressed on September 6 from Geneva to Zaghlul Pasha at his Paris residence. In this letter Mr. Macdonald said that he sincerely regretted to learn from a letter that Zaghlul Pasha had addressed to him on August 29 that negotiations could not take place, but he was happy at the indication given by Zaghlul Pasha that it might be possible to endeavour to dispel the cloud which unfortunately was covering Anglo-Egyptian relations, particularly since the recent events in the Sudan. Mr. Macdonald added that he had a lively desire to contribute to the re-establishment of a spirit of good-will in the relations between the two countries; consequently he would be pleased to meet Zaghlul Pasha in London towards the end of this month.

LORD BIRKENHEAD'S LETTER.

If the publication of Lord Birkenhead's letter to Lord Balfour, written three months after the signature of the Irish Treaty, causes Ulster to moderate her attitude towards the Boundary Commission it will serve a most useful purpose, declares the Westminster Gazette. It tells strongly against the argument recently put forward in some Unionist quarters that the operations of the Commission ought to be cramped by the laying down of additional terms of reference. Lord Birkenhead's interpretation of the legal meaning of the clause may be an accurate one. That is clearly a question on which it is difficult for laymen to challenge the opinion of a distinguished lawyer. Fortunately, the Chairman of the Commission is himself an eminent lawyer, and is, therefore, well able to construe the clause for himself. But Lord Birkenhead's argument in support of his own construction does not seem to us to be very convincing.

SPECIAL PLEADING.

The Daily News says:—The solemn importance with which certain organs of the Unionist Press have endowed Lord Birkenhead's letter to Lord Balfour on the boundary clauses of the Irish Treaty is fantastically disproportionate to its real significance. The misconception is entirely due to the assumption that Lord Birkenhead's letter is a "contemporary document." In a vital sense, it is nothing of the kind. The Irish Treaty was signed on December 6, 1921, and immediately the floodgates of angry criticism were opened. Lord Birkenhead's letter, instead of being contemporary evidence offered in a spirit of detachment by an impartial witness, was written at the height of a sharp controversy, in which the writer and his friends were deeply involved. The Birkenhead apologia was, in fact, a piece of special pleading, which hardly justified what seems to have been the recipient's enthusiastic acquiescence.

TREATY OF MUTUAL ASSISTANCE.

LEAGUE'S FIRST CONSIDERATION.

GERMAN NATIONALISTS AND WAR GUILT.

ATTITUDE THAT WILL REACT IN GENEVA.

The League of Nations has appointed a sub-committee to consider the attitudes of the various States to the proposed Treaty of Mutual Assistance. Lord Parmoor's suggestion that arbitration, followed by security and disarmament, should first be considered, was not accepted.

During a general discussion on the work of the League, Mr. Hofmeyer, a Dutch member of the South African delegation, said that his country was warmly disposed towards the League.

A matter which must have an important bearing on the eventual admission of Germany is the demand of the German Nationalists that a Note formally repudiating responsibility for the war should be sent by the German Government to the Allies. The Nationalists claim that the Government promised to send the Note in return for the withdrawal of opposition to the ratification of the London Agreement. Government supporters urge that to make a disclaimer now when immediate difficulties are in a fair way towards a settlement, and France, particularly, is inclined to admit Germany to the League, would create a very bad impression. The Chancellor and the Foreign Minister have returned to Berlin to lay the matter before the Cabinet.

LEAGUE'S PROCEDURE.

ARBITRATION WHEN SECURITY IS ASSURED.

GENEVA, Monday.

Number 3 Committee, presided over by M. Duca (Rumania) this afternoon dealt with the question of the reduction of armaments, there was a large attendance, including many Americans.

Lord Parmoor (Great Britain) urged that precedence should be given to arbitration, after which security and disarmament should be taken. M. Politis, Greece, favoured referring the replies of the various Governments on the Draft Treaty of Mutual Assistance to a small committee for report, while Signor Schenzer (Italy) disagreed with Lord Parmoor, and shared the view of M. Politis.

A general discussion followed. Signor Schanzer read a lengthy statement to the effect that Italy preferred the strengthening, if necessary, of the Covenant of the League, rather than the establishment of any new machinery. Eventually, the Committee agreed to the proposal of M. Politis, who was elected chairman of the sub-Committee, while Mr. Henderson (Great Britain) was elected a member of the sub-Committee dealing with the limitation of naval armaments.

The next sitting of the Committee has been fixed for next Wednesday.—(Reuter.)

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.

GENEVA, Monday.

The Premiers have now departed, and the League assembly this morning settled down to something more like normal routine than was possible in the exceptional circumstances last week. The assembly itself sat only in the morning, leaving the afternoon free for the Commissioners to begin their work.

In the plenary session, the general discussion on the League's work was resumed. The most notable contribution was a striking eulogium on the League by Mr. G. R. Hofmeyer, the Dutch member of the South African delegation, who came into prominence last year as administrator of the mandate territory of South-West Africa during the Bondelswart's rebellion. That fact made his whole-hearted devotion to the League the more notable, and he added the satisfactory information that he believed General Hertzog to be as warmly disposed towards the League as General Smuts.

Of the other speakers, M. Ador, Switzerland, insisted that the construction of a new assembly hall should be proceeded with immediately, and Baron von Wurtemberg, the Swedish Foreign Minister, was anxious that the League should see what steps could be taken towards the modification of international law.

WAR RESPONSIBILITY.

POLITICAL MOVE LIKELY TO PREJUDICE PEACE.

BERLIN, Monday.

The question whether Germany's formal repudiation of war guilt shall be officially notified to the Allies or not is made the subject of an acrimonious debate in the Berlin Press. The Nationalist organs accuse the Government of a breach of faith in not despatching the Note, as promised to the German Nationals, and the Democratic journals point out the unfortunate consequences which the despatch of the Note at this juncture would entail for Germany.

The Vossische Zeitung demands that the Government shall have sufficient courage not to send the Note as such, on the ground that it would be neither of political nor of moral use, but would, on the contrary, worsen Germany's international position in a catastrophical manner.

The Monarchist Kreuz Zeitung, on the other hand, insists that the Government shall keep its word, and says that, if it does not do so, then it will be guilty of a breach of faith towards the German people, for a climb down in this question would signify a third Versailles, which would be worse than the London Agreement, which was a second Versailles.

The importance which the Government attaches to the question is shown by the fact that both Dr. Marx and Herr Stresemann are interrupting their holidays in order to decide at a Cabinet meeting next week whether, and, if so, when, the war guilt declaration shall be sent to the Allies. The official communiqué which announces this adds that the Government has received a number of wishes and suggestions, particularly from economic quarters, as to the form and time of despatch of the Note.

As regards Germany's admission to the League of Nations, M. Herriot said that Germany would be accepted in the League on a basis of equality with all the other nations when she accepted the conditions laid down in Article 1, Paragraphs 8 and 9 of the Covenant. Both large and small nations belong to the League, he concluded, who all have only one ideal—the maintenance of peace.

GREAT RAINFALL.

CELLARS FLOODED IN DUBLIN.

DAMAGE IN THE COUNTRY.

The torrential rain which fell in the early hours of yesterday morning had serious results in parts of Dublin. The major portion of the damage was caused in Grafton street, in cellars underneath the shops.

Mr. Louis Wine, antique dealer, discovered that the water had penetrated his cellar and that oil-paintings and engravings had suffered. His damage is estimated at £300. A ladies' outfitter's establishment, at 1 Anne street, was also flooded and Paris hats, which had only arrived last Saturday, suffered damage. There was also flooding at Messrs. Robert and Co.'s new premises, which were to have been opened this week. The water reached to a height of two feet, and much trouble was entailed in bailing it out.

The basement receiving rooms of Switzer and Co. were also flooded. Among the other premises which suffered were those of Mr. J. M. Barnado, furrier; Hammond's shaving saloon (where the water was seven feet high), and Verner and Co. In the last instance the damage amounted to £150.

The general opinion is that the flooding was due to the pipes not being sufficiently large to carry off the great rush of water.

Flooding also occurred in four houses in Crumlin road, Dublin at the Dolphin's Barn end. The houses are situated at the base of a steep incline, and are close to the roadway. A flood swept down the hill, bringing with it a quantity of mud and loose earth. The drains on the roadway were quickly choked, and the water began pouring into the ground floors of the houses. The bedrooms fortunately were in the upper storeys, so that no danger threatened the inmates. The neighbours willingly lent their assistance, and efforts were made to free the choked drains. The work lasted for several hours, but it was not until four o'clock that the drains were cleared, and then the water began to abate. In the meantime the Fire Brigade arrived, but the pump which they brought with them was not put into use.

RAILWAY LINE UNDER WATER.

Great rains fell unceasingly yesterday in Londonderry and Donegal, and extensive tracts of the countryside, particularly in low-lying parts of Donegal, have been transformed into lakes, and enormous damage has been done to crops. Many fields of oats, some of which had just been cut and in stooks, are submerged, and the hopes of saving the corn have been blighted. Many roads in Donegal are impassable, being flooded in some districts as high as the hedges.

Portions of the Londonderry and Lough Swilly Railway also are flooded. The line for a distance of three-quarters of a mile at Burnfoot Station was four feet under water, and the evening train passing through it resembled a steamer churning its passage through a sea. At Burnfoot Station the water almost reached the platform. Other parts of the line between Londonderry and Gallagh were also submerged. One train was delayed two hours.

EIGHT HOURS' RAINFALL.

At 11 o'clock on Sunday night, a thunderstorm passed over Longford. It was accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain, which lasted until 7 o'clock on Monday morning. Fortunately, there was little hay lying about the fields, as it had been made up during the fine days of last week. Low-lying lands around the town are flooded, and it is feared that it will now be difficult to save the necessary turf supplies.

Reports from the Ballymahon and Athlone districts state that the weather was fine in that part of the country up to Monday morning.

COUNTRYSIDE FLOODED.

There was an abnormal rainfall in the Castlerea district on Sunday night. The downpour commenced at about midnight and continued until 6 o'clock yesterday morning. It damaged the roads, and the whole countryside resembles a vast lake. Potatoes and oats in the lowlands bordering the River Suck are completely submerged and hay is floating in the fields. In many places houses had to be vacated yesterday morning.

The turf supply is ruined, and a fuel famine stares the people in the face. The farmers' plight is a sorry one. Nearly half the hay has still to be cut and saved, and what has been saved in many places is of bad quality, and is almost useless for feeding purposes.

THE SUIR IN FLOOD.

Rain fell in torrents in the Clonmel district on Sunday, and the Suir was bank high yesterday. The rain did great harm to cut hay and corn and flattened a lot of standing corn. It is no unusual sight to see fields of hay and corn lying in the swath with thick aftergrass growing about it. Yesterday fortunately was fine, with plenty of sunshine.

LARGE TRACTS UNDER WATER.

Torrential rains fell on Sunday night and Monday morning in the Tullamore district, and flooded many areas.

TERRIFIED HOPPERS.

A heavy thunderstorm which passed over Kent during Sunday night rendered several families of hoppers homeless, and some of them returned to London by train last night. The storm broke in two parts at Tonbridge, one part passing towards Hastings and the other in the direction of Maidstone.

At Golden Green, near Hadlow, two hop gardens were levelled to the ground. Several trees were struck by lightning, and six hoppers' huts, crowded with alarmed women and children, were ruined, the roofs being torn off and carried some distance away.

DANISH ARMY TO BE ABOLISHED.

ENLARGEMENT OF AIR FORCE.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
COPENHAGEN, Monday.

At the opening of the Autumn session of the Danish Parliament, a bill will be presented for the abolition of the Danish Army, and the substitution of a Reserve Police Force for the present National Militia. These are among the chief clauses in the disarmament bill, which has been prepared by the Minister of Defence, M. Rasmussen, and which has now been approved by the Cabinet Council of the Socialist Government. Coast defence ships and cruisers are also to be abolished under the bill, and only five vessels, each under seven hundred tons, will be retained, together with small craft as fishery inspection ships, with a personnel of fewer than two hundred men, and an annual cost of only £200,000. The Air Force, however, is to be retained, and in all probability enlarged.

ACTORS' DISPUTE.

A HUDDERSFIELD INCIDENT.

There was a development last night at Huddersfield, in the dispute between the Actors' Association and the Stage Guild, in connection with the appearance of Miss Eva Moore, in the comedy, "Mary, Mary, Quite Contrary," at the Huddersfield Theatre Royal. The Actors' Association had caused handbills to be distributed, asking all loyal Trade Unionists and the general public to keep away from the play, "because Miss Moore is one of the founders of the Stage Guild, an anti-trades union organisation formed by the employers to smash the Actors' Association." In reply to this Miss Moore made a speech from the stage, in which she said that she was one of those who had helped the Actors' Association to become a trade union, and she had left them because she had differed from them recently on several points. It was not true that either she or the Stage Guild was out to smash the Actor's Association. The play had a large audience, and no disturbance occurred.

ANGLO-POLISH COMMERCIAL RELATIONS.

WARSAW, Monday.

The Federation of British Industries has asked the Ministry of Industry and Commerce to forward a list of banks, institutions, and persons specially interested in the development of the Anglo-Polish commercial relations.—(Reuter.)

UNEMPLOYED EX-ARMY MEN.

POSSESSION TAKEN OF DUBLIN OFFICES.

Members of the Association of ex-Officers and Men of the National Army, at a meeting in the Trades Hall, Capel street, Dublin, yesterday, passed a resolution calling upon "the alleged Executive" to resign immediately, as they had no authority to speak or act on their behalf in any way whatsoever.

The meeting was called under the auspices of the Council of the Unemployed. It was decided to recognise this Association as the senior body and to act under its orders. A provisional committee was appointed as follows:—Chairman, W. Fitzgerald; secretary, Charles Hopkins; treasurer, Francis Brazil; trustees, John Corrigan and Christopher Wood. They were empowered to take over control of the books of the organisation at the headquarters at North Great George's street.

When these resolutions had been passed, Mr. Fitzgerald proposed that the Provisional Committee, accompanied by all ex-Army men, should forthwith carry out the orders of the meeting. The motion was accepted, and the meeting proceeded in a body to the offices in North Great George's street, of which they took possession, amidst scenes of excitement. There was only one member of the displaced Executive on the premises at the time, and, although he declined to hand over the books, his refusal was ineffective.

THE SPEECHES.

Before the march took place the meeting listened to speeches by Mr. Fitzgerald and officials of the Council of the Unemployed.

Mr. Lennon, who presided, said that the meeting had been called by "a fighting Council," which was out to secure justice for the workers against the oppressors of the poor. Their policy was "one man one job." The question before the meeting, he declared, was whether they desired or not to become a section of the Unemployed Council.

Mr. Fitzgerald said that they wanted men on their Executive Committee who would lead them in their fight for bread; men who would approach the departments interested in the building schemes and see that the agreement sanctioned by the Government that 50 per cent. of the work should be given to ex-Army men was revived.

Mr. Mullen, Secretary of the Unemployed Council, declared that it was their idea to organise every unemployed man in Dublin, no matter who he was or what he belonged to. They had had enough bluff from the Government, and they would make them toe the line. If they were out for the people, as they said they were, it was up to them to do something for the people.

SECRET SOCIETIES CONDEMNED.

The speaker strongly condemned secret societies, which, he said, had been "the bane and the curse of the country." There were at present two secret organisations in existence which would lead to inevitable war. They had had enough of war. He advised them strongly to have nothing to do with secret societies. Everything should be done in the light of day. They wanted no I.R.B.'s or other secret conclaves.

Mr. Mullen also stated that if the ex-members of the National Army came under the Council of the Unemployed, the Council would arrange for a number of men to act as pickets outside the theatres from 7 o'clock to see that, if the managements of the theatres employed "the two-job men," the actors would play to empty houses. There were, he alleged, men in good, comfortable jobs in the daytime who, at night, worked in the theatres, thus depriving a starving man of an opportunity to earn a livelihood. There were plenty of men around the city "keeping the walls up" who could be secured for the jobs. It was better than having them dropping in their standing from the hunger.

Mr. Stewart, Treasurer of the Council, said that the 17,000 men who were idle in Dublin had 42,000 children depending upon them.

DEATH OF SIR C. M. BAILHACHE.

A WELL-KNOWN ENGLISH JUDGE.

The death occured suddenly at Ardleburgh early yesterday morning of Sir Clement Bailhache, who had been a Judge of the High Court in England since 1912.

A post-mortem examination of the body of Mr. Justice Bailhache yesterday afternoon showed that death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

The judge had been staying with Lady Bailhache at Aldeburgh for the past three weeks, and appeared to be in his usual good health, enjoying his golf and boating. Early yesterday morning Lady Bailhache was awakened by her husband's groaning. She summoned assistance, but his lordship passed away within a few minutes.

At the inquest in the evening, a verdict of death from cerebral hemorrhage was returned.

It was stated that the Judge had not had medical attendance for about a year, and then only for a temporary ailment. Lady Bailhache said that he was golfing and boating on Saturday, and on Sunday morning went to church and took walks both in the afternoon and evening. When awakened by her husband's groaning her efforts to give him brandy were of no avail. He did not speak.

Mr. Justice Bailhache was born in Leeds on November 2, 1856, the son of a Baptist Minister, and was educated at London University. He practised for some years as a solicitor, and was called to the Bar in 1889, and joined the South Wales and Chester Circuit. In 1881 he married Fanny Elizabeth, daughter of Herman Lubstein. In 1908 he took silk, and in the year of his elevation to the Bench was created a Knight.

CO. MONAGHAN DRAINAGE.

MINISTER'S INTEREST.

A meeting in connection with drainage in Rockcarry, Newbliss, and Drum areas was held last Saturday at Freamemount.

Mr. Blythe, Minister of Finance, wrote:—

"Mr. P. Duffy, T.D., has told me about the meeting which is about to be held in connection with the new drainage scheme, and he has asked me to attend. As I am at present situated, it is hardly likely that I shall be able to go. I have only just returned after a lengthy absence, due to ill-health, during which a good deal of work accumulated, in spite of the efforts of the President, who endeavoured to dispose of my work in addition to his own. At present I am faced by a considerable accumulation of work, which will probably take up all my time, and will not give me an opportunity of going down to the meeting.

"I have, however, discussed the proposal with Mr. Duffy. I think the scheme will be found to come within the provisions of the Arterial Drainage Bill, which was promised in the Governor-General's speech at the opening of the last session of the Oireachtas, but which was crowded out by more pressing legislation. It is expected that the bill will be passed during the coming session. It will probably give powers to County Councils to initiate drainage works, and to charge the cost of the works on the lands benefited by the improvements."

The Chairman said that Mr. Blythe's letter was a hopeful augury for the remedy of this impoverishing distraction. It was now evident that the Government was anxious to help in this reproductive work affecting Monaghan and Cavan.

Mr. P. Duffy said that on his return to Dublin after inspecting the scenes of destruction caused by flooding in Co. Monaghan, he discussed his experience with the responsible Ministers, was now in a position to state that the Minister for Agriculture, the Minister for Industry and Commerce, and the Minister for Fisheries were all agreed that urgent attention was necessary to remedy this harassing and widespread destruction.

Mr. J. Finan, County Secretary of the Irish Farmers' Union, remarked that for four years every conceivable effort had been made by the farmers to get remedial measures applied, but without avail. However, it was evident from the tone of the Minister's message that a sustained effort was about to be made to conclude a state of affairs that was compelling a large section of the rural population of Monaghan into a state that had but one ending—viz, destitution, misery and famine.

ENDLESS WONDERS OF WEMBLEY.

RARE ORIENTAL FABRICS.

DUBLIN-MADE BISCUITS FOR THE CONTINENT.

FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.
Monday.

Attendances at Wembley have been maintained to a remarkable extent, when the dismal weather conditions of the past week are taken into consideration. There has been a succession of wet, sunless days, with little prospect of an immediate improvement, but the Searchlight and Torchlight Tattoo has drawn immense attendances to the Stadium every evening, while the remainder of the Exhibition has been well filled in the earlier hours of the day. Visitors from long distances will continue to be numerous, for specially arranged excursions from the North and West of England are bringing another half million to the Exhibition during the next few weeks.

What is described as a carpet coat is the latest addition to the exhibits in the Indian Pavilion. It is in the section organised by the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh. In appearance it resembles a delicate carpet, and is so closely woven that there are from 900 to 1,100 knots to a square inch. Roses and rose leaves are interwoven with various floral designs in delicate tints. This coat is the only remaining example of an art which is now lost. It was made 80 years ago for an Indian Prince when the Indian rulers maintained skilled artisans who had no stated hours of labour, but who were engaged upon the condition that their work must be of the most wonderful description. This custom has now disappeared, and the results of it are rarely to be met with save in the works of art preserved in museums or in the old palaces of the East. The warp and woof in the making of this coat are silk, while the foundation is of the finest wool from Kashmir.

RARE SILKS AND BROCADES.

Attention will be directed by the coat to the carpets of Agra, which compare well with the Persian output, while those from Mirzapore are cheap and durable. In the same section may be seen silks and brocades from Benares, including one piece made in 1635, which is as perfect as on the day that it left the weaver's cottage. The historical pictures on show include one formed entirely of precious stones, and near by is a studded dagger which belonged to the dreaded Moghul Emperor Aurungzebe.

Calico printing is an art which has for long been associated with the United Provinces, and some old types are shown, well preserved in glass cases. Some of them were manufactured in the 16th and 17th centuries, and their colour is fast and perfectly natural to those who are used to Indian life and scenery. Along the wall of the western end of the United Provinces Section are arranged numerous hunting trophies, many of which have been lent by the King. There is one tiger skin, considered to be the largest yet obtained, which has been loaned by Lord Reading. Another exhibit which attracts attention is a pair of elephant's tusks over eight feet long, and weighing 164lbs. each. These were presented to the King by the Maharaja of Nepal.

So far as commercial results are concerned, business has been done through the United Provinces exhibit to the extent of over £50,000. Purchasers have come from the United States, Canada, Bermuda, Belgium, the Netherlands, Scandinavia, and Spain. Inquiries now being attended to have come from all parts of the world.

NEW ZEALAND BUTTER.

Largely owing to the New Zealand exhibit, a new outlet has just been found for New Zealand produce in Switzerland. The butter compares favourably with the home-produced article, and will be sold at a price which will give it a considerable advantage. Consignments to Switzerland are to commence shortly, and it is probable that other Continental countries will soon be importing, for it is considered that if a country which itself has a large grazing and dairy industry can be invaded by New Zealand butter, there are other places which can be looked upon as prospective markets.

This aspect of the Wembley Exhibition is not an isolated incident. Not only have the products of the British Empire been introduced to other Dominions, but they have attracted the attention of visitors from countries outside the Empire. Pottery, for instance, has gone to Spain. Dublin-made biscuits have gone to the Continental countries, as well as to the Dominions, Irish linen is breaking into new markets with which business has not previously been done, and manufactured articles, particularly those connected with the iron and steel, electrical and textile industries, are going to the furthermost ends of the world.

There is no doubt about the success of the Amusements Park Section, for figures show that 95 per cent. of the visitors wend their way some time during the day to the lighter side of the exhibition. When the exhibition opened it was computed that a sum of £1,500,000 had been spent on the erection of the various contrivances. Recent additions have brought the total cost to over £2,000,000 Many new contrivances have made their appearance, and several have been enlarged. The Devil's Bowl—an up-to-date adaptation of the old helter-skelter—has been planned and built since the exhibition opened. A new and bigger version of the Whirl of the World has been opened up, and some of the thrilling devices have been built in triplicate or duplicate. The side shows have grown out of proportion, and there are now 100 more than were originally planned. Despite all these additions, and the fact that the exhibition has only about 50 more days to run this year, the Amusements' Park authorities are still searching for space to accommodate the showmen who are applying for ground.

CARNIVAL DRESS.

Before the summer really ends Wembley will once more take on carnival dress. During the last fortnight of September the grounds of the British Empire Exhibition will be in gala attire each evening for a merry parade of King Carnival and the Queen of the Revels, accompanied by jesters, grotesque courtiers, and musicians. Wembley has its light as well as its serious side. During the carnival fortnight the lighter side will be specially emphasised. Night will be turned into day, and the parading bands will dispense gay music to the fancy dress throngs. The joyful spirit of carnival will be everywhere. Here and there around the lakeside decorated cars, with their bevy of attendants in fancy costume, will dispense mirth and laughter free. Battles of confetti, multi-coloured hats, musical instruments, coloured steamers and balloons will help to create an atmosphere of gaiety.

Gala dances will be held throughout the fortnight on the three dance floors in the Exhibition grounds, and every evening there will be valuable prizes for the best costume. On the last day two prizes of £30 each will be given for the best dress worn. Frolic and fun on the lake will be provided each evening by various branches of the Boy Scouts. Tug-o'-war in boats, walking the greasy pole, riding the hobby horse—these are but a few of the events which will also be open to the public. Prizes will be given.

Wembley's firework displays are famous, and further displays in the Stadium are promised every evening during the carnival fortnight. Stedman's corps de ballet of beautiful dancers will give classical and popular exhibitions of open air dancing. Songs will be sung in the glow of camp fires by two concert parties, and revellers will be invited to give vocal support to the choruses. Throughout the fortnight, too, there will be a series of treasure hunts, for which valuable prizes have already been offered by exhibitors.

IRISH TIMES FOREIGN SERVICE.
FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.
PARIS, Sunday.

The experiments conducted by Dr. Serge Voronoff, the well-known gland specialist at the Voronoff Institute, Boulogne-sur-Seine, have led to the discovery of what is described as a certain cure for arterio-sclerosis—hardening of the arteries. Professor Voronoff declares that he has effected a cure in every one of sixteen cases of arterio-sclerosis submitted to his treatment. The discovery was made by Professor Voronoff in the course of gland operations.

ADVERTISING ROSSLARE. — Wexford Rural District Council had before it an application from the Secretary Rosslare Development Association for a rate of 1d. in the £ to defray the cost of advertising and developing Rosslare. It was stated that resorts inferior to Rosslare were advertised and developed by enterprising British and Continental authorities, and attracted Irish visitors who would patronise their own resorts if they were afforded an opportunity of doing so. A member said that Rosslare was growing without a rate. If they advertised Rosslare, why should they not advertise Kilmore and the other seaside resorts in the county? The farmers were paying about two-thirds of the rates. Another member said that he did not see why Rosslare should be selected and the farmers asked to develop it. The application is to be further considered.

KING'S COUNTY COTTAGE PRIZES.—The prize winners under the King's County Agricultural Committee's scheme of prizes for cottages and small farms are:—Cottier Class, Northern Area—John Conroy, Ballinsragh, Killeigh, 1; Thomas Dunne, Old Croghan, Philipstown, 2; Thomas Conroy, Ballycue, Geashill, 3. CO. LONGFORD STRIKE. — Granard Urban Council is able to carry on the road work, as its employes are not affected by the strike of County Council workers. Two Labour leaders recently visited Granard, with a view to obtaining the sympathies of the workers in the dispute, but the men said that they were not concerned in it.

LONGFORD FAIR.—There were many buyers at the Longford September Fair yesterday, but prices were high and business slow. Springer cows sold well at £40 (top price); others at from £20. Three-year-olds, £17 to £18; two years, £14 to £16; yearlings, £4 to £6; sucking calves, £2 to £3. Beef realised 47s. 6d. a cwt., live weight. There was a brisk trade in horses, of which there was a good supply. The demand was principally for animals suitable for ploughing and other farm work, and prices ruled from £15 to £30. Northern dealers were conspicuous, but there was a marked absence of cross-Channel and foreign buyers. The pig fair last Friday was not up to the average, and business was slow. Top prices, £4 to £4 10s. a cwt.

VACCINATION CONSCIENCES. —The Local Government Board has informed the Wexford Rural Council that it has noted the Council's request to have the Vaccination Acts amended, but meanwhile the Council should take steps to comply with the law as it stands at present. It was decided to take no action until a conscientious clause has been inserted in the Act.

MUNSTER.

For not having printed over their shop doors the words—"Licensed General Dealer," Thomas Holden and Agnes Hoyne were fined 1s. and costs each at Graigue-na-Managh, Co. Kilkenny.

NORTHERN IRELAND.

A LICENSING CASE.—At Newtownhamilton, Co. Armagh, Licensing Court yesterday, the police opposed the issue of a publican's certificate to B. McVerry, Balleech, on the grounds that he had not carried on a public-house in the premises since January, 1923, when the building was accidentally burned down. McVerry stated that, on the advice of his solicitor, he purchased two quarts of whiskey, and on certain days in April and June went to the premises in order to preserve his licence. He kept the front door open for trade, and sold some of the whiskey. A bank had a mortgage on the property, and if the licence was not renewed the applicant, who gave £900 for the premises, would be ruined. The Court decided to sign the certificate, but remarked that it was a "very thin" case, and sailing almost too near the wind.

POLICEMAN ASSAULTED.—A fine of 40s., or in default one month's imprisonment, was imposed on Daniel P. Curran, of Earlscourt street, Falls road, in the Belfast Summons Court, yesterday, on a charge of assaulting a policeman on Sunday morning.

PRICE OF BREAD INCREASED.—The retail price of bread was increased in Belfast yesterday morning by a farthing a loaf. The price is now 3d. for a pound loaf and 10½d. for a four pounds loaf.

Londonderry bakers' dispute has been referred to a Conciliation Board. In the meantime the men remain at work.

PREMIER'S EULOGY OF WORK.

REAPING THE HARVEST OF ACHIEVEMENT.

The Prime Minister, who to-day is to receive the Freedom of Dundee, arrived in the city last night, and was accorded an extraordinarily enthusiastic reception. The streets were lined with citizens, who loudly cheered the Premier as he motored to the Victoria Art Galleries, where the local labour party had assembled to welcome their leader.

Mr. Macdonald and his daughter, Ishbel, are the guests during the visit of the Lord Provost.

Mr. Macdonald was presented with two volumes, "Haunted Dundee," and "The History of Dundee." Miss Macdonald and Miss Morel were presented with chocolates.

Mr. Macdonald said that he came to Dundee not for political, but family, purposes, and as sometimes families disagreed in politics, the less a new member of the family said about politics, perhaps, the better. (Laughter.)

He had been surprised to hear it suggested that where ladies were concerned there should be sweetness without permanence. He wanted to warn them against that doctrine. "Be sweet and permanent," said Mr. Macdonald. "It was the sweetness and the light of the Labour Party that were likely to make it permanent.

STRAIN OF OFFICE.

"To-night I confess I am a bit tired. Whatever pleasures being a Prime Minister may give, they are very hard bought. The price is very high, and I sometimes doubt whether it will be possible in the years to come, with long sessions in the House of Commons, with no mercy shown and no favour ever extended—I am beginning to be a little bit doubtful whether in years to come anybody can ever be Prime Minister of Great Britain for more than twelve months."

An old friend at Geneva had ridiculed to him the idea of returning to Scotland for a holiday to recruit his health in order to go on with the daily task. "Stay here and die and be taken home for a good funeral." (Laughter.)

There was a good deal to be said for that view, commented the Premier, but more to be said for the other, though the work was simply enormous. "Don't imagine," he proceeded, "that you can do everything in a day. Whoever tries to do everything in a day is a quack doctor. The man who knows how to do his work, who seeks legislation that is to be permanent, who will not sacrifice one sentence of the vision of an ideal that he has made, will work humbly, patiently, faithfully, building up and up and up, dealing with the harvests as they ripen, never cutting green corn—(cheers)—but always watching, and, having somewhat of the powers of the Creator himself, hastening the ripening of what is green, so that at the earliest possible moment it may be cut and gathered into our barns. (Cheers.)

STEADY PROGRESSION.

"That, at any rate, has been the conception which I have put before me, and when you hear foolish people talk about pledges to be fulfilled, let me confess to you, and to them, that, if I were Prime Minister of this country for fifty years—fifty years as packed with work as the last eight months have been—pledges I have given you from my heart would still be unfulfilled, not because I fainted or failed, but because the corn was still green.

"The great thing that our country needs is a sustaining faith in the virtue of careful work, confident that, while doing our work, we are inspiring the young to do their's, and instead of limiting the vision to this or that programme, we are teaching our people to know that human capacity for improvement is almost infinite and that the best thing that a generation can do, not only for itself, but for all the generations that are to come, is to do its own work in a good workmanlike way, quietly, faithfully, prayerfully, so that it will go down to the grey mists of time with pride in its heart and happiness in its soul." (Cheers.)

THE CLAIMANT TO KURDISTAN THRONE.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

Sied Zerdicheno, who claims to be the heir to the Throne of Kurdistan, has been ordered to be deported, on a charge of making an untrue statement before the Immigration Board.

Zerdicheno's arrival in this country, on July 9, was exploited in the American newspapers, but some doubt was cast upon his status, it being declared that he had accompanied "Princess Fatima, of Egypt," on her visit to this country three years previously as her major domo, and an investigation was ordered.—(Reuter.)

COURT OF INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE.

ALLOCATION OF A MONASTERY.

THE HAGUE (By Mail).

It will be remembered that the Council of the League of Nations asked the Permanent Court of the League of Justice to give an advisory opinion on the so-called Saint-Naoum question.

Saint-Naoum is an orthodox monastery situated on the southern shore of Lake Ochrida, in the border district between Albania and Yugo-Slavia. Following the Balkan Wars, the task of fixing the frontiers of Albania was entrusted to the Great Powers, and this they did at the Conference of Ambassadors held in London in 1913. The Great War, however, prevented the delimitation of this frontier, and consequently, when Albania was admitted into the League of Nations in 1920, a reservation was made respecting her frontiers. Once more the fixing of these frontiers was left to the Principal Allied Powers, who carried out their mission by means of a decision adopted in November, 1921, with which the interested States agreed to conform.

As regards the region to the south of Lake Ochrida, this decision made reference to the decision of 1913. The Commission entrusted with the delimitation of the frontier in this region encountered difficulties of interpretation in connection with the allocation of the Monastery of Saint-Naoum. These difficulties were referred to the Conference, which, after obtaining all relevant information, decided, on December 6th, 1922, to assign the Monastery to Albania, taking the view that the question had been left in doubt by the various previous instruments.

DECISION CHALLENGED.

Yugo-Slavia protested against this decision, maintaining that the decision of 1913 had already attributed the Monastery to Serbia, which, therefore, had a vested right to it, and that, consequently, the decision of 1922 was null and void. It was contended that, at all events, the decision should be revised, because it had been adopted without taking into account certain facts which became known subsequently.

The matter had reached this stage when, through the Council, the Court was asked for its opinion on the question whether the principal Allied Powers had, by the decision of the Conference of Ambassadors of 1922, exhausted, in regard to the Monastery of Saint-Naoum, their mission of fixing the frontiers of Albania.

The Court's reply to this question is in the affirmative, and is based on the following reasons:—

The decisions of 1921 and 1922 of the Conference of Ambassadors were definitive. The Conference, however, having come to the conclusion that a certain point had been left in doubt, was bound to deal with it. Again, the contention that the decision of 1921 had created vested rights in favour of Serbia is bound up with the question whether the frontier at Saint-Naoum had or had not been effectively fixed in 1913. After a careful analysis of the documents placed at its disposal with regard to the fixing of the frontier at Saint-Naoum, the Court has come to the conclusion that this frontier had been left in doubt by the decisions of 1913 and 1921. It follows, therefore, that there could be no vested rights in favour of Serbia under these decisions, and that the Conference was free to decide the question.

As regards the new facts alleged to exist by Yugo-Slavia, the Court finds that they consist merely of documents to which the members of the Conference had access, and which, moreover, do not prove that the Monastery of Saint-Naoum was allotted to Serbia in 1913.—(Reuter.)

THE HILL OF TARA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Your admirable article in to-day's issue on "Remnants of History" is especially interesting on account of your reference to the Hill of Tara. I hope that it may arouse the interest of many of our countrymen. A thorough and scientific excavation of the Hill might yield results which would throw Tutankhamen completely in the shade, and would draw the attention of the whole world to our dear land.—Yours, etc.,

COTTON opened steady, 6 points up to 5 points down. Values rose owing to the better conditions of the cotton goods trade, encouraging cable news and buying by foreign interests. A reaction set in on the bearish interior movement and Wall street selling, and prices slumped further when the Government crop conditions report was published. Spot interests were selling, and the decline was assisted by a favourable weather forecast, bear pressure, smaller exports and selling by Southern operators and New Orleans houses. The market closed easy, 90 to 101 points fall. Spot quiet at 120 points lower. New Orleans spot 72 points down. Receipts—Atlantic ports, 9,000 bales; Gulf ports, 23,000 bales; Pacific ports, nil. COTTON CONDITION REPORT.

WASHINGTON, Monday.

The Crop Reporting Board of the United States Department of Agriculture, in its sixth cotton report, issued to-day, estimates that the condition of cotton on September 1st was 59.3 per cent. of a normal. No comparative figures for that date are available, inasmuch as a recent law changed the dates of issuance of cotton condition reports as of the 1st and 15th of each month during the growing season. The nearest date for which condition report comparative statistics are available is August 25th, when the condition was 54.1 per cent. of a normal. The condition at the time of the last report was 64.9 per cent. on August 16th. The next condition report will be issued on September 23. To-day the Board announced forecasts—A total production of 12,787,000, equivalent 5,000-pound bales. Production was 10,128,478, equivalent 500-pound bales in 1923. The average production for the last five years was 10,540,100 bales.

COTTON GINNING REPORT.

American cotton of the growth of 1924 ginned prior to September 1 totalled 958,000 running bales, counting round bales as half bales, the Bureau of the Census Department of Commerce announced to-day in its third ginning report of the season. That compares with 1,141,537 bales last year, 806,189 bales in 1922, and 485,787 bales in 1921, ginned prior to September 1. The next report will be issued on September 23.

CHICAGO, Monday.

WHEAT opened steady, ⅛c. to ⅛c. higher, owing to adverse weather for the movement, bullish cable advices, and strength of North-West markets; but reacted later under the influence of large stocks, larger North-West receipts, commission and cash houses selling, and a disappointing outside inquiry. Prices rallied again on a demand from millers, bull support, unfavourable crop reports from Canada, and foreign buying, and the market closed steady at ⅛c. to ⅛c. advance. Spot easy. No. 2 hard winter, spot, 123¼; No. 3 hard winter, spot, 121¼. Futures—Opening options, September, 122¼; December, 127¼; closing options, September, 122¼; December, 127¼; May, 134. Receipts—Western 4,415,000 bushels, same day last year 2,292,000; this season 147,660,000, last season 114,779,000.

MAIZE at the opening was steady and unchanged. Some improvement was shown owing to small stocks, less favourable weather, and covering of shorts; then the market had a downward turn on better crop news, in unison with wheat, also on commission house selling, a poor cash demand, and stop-loss orders. Partial rallies followed owing to strength of outside markets and bullish visible supply figures, and the closing was steady, ⅛c. up to ⅛c. down. No. 2 mixed, spot, 119¼. Futures—Opening options, September, 117¼; December, 112¼; closing options, September, 118¼; December, 112¼; May, 113¼. Receipts—Western 814,000 bushels, same day last year 827,000; this season 41,509,000, last season 43,984,000.

OATS easier, ⅛c. to ⅜c. lower. Future closing options—September, 47¼; December, 51¼; May, 55¼.

PROVISIONS opened steady, and prices advanced owing to the rise in grain and favourable European advices; but declined later on lower hog quotations and selling by commission houses. The advance was resumed subsequently on covering of shorts and buying by grain people, and the market closed steady, with lard 2½ points down to 2½ points up and ribs 5 to 7½ points higher. Lard—Closing options, September, 13.47½; October, 13.42½; January, 13.40. Ribs—Closing options, September, 11.75; October, 11.85; January unquoted.

BACON steady at late rates.

HOGS easier; light descriptions are 10 to 5 points and heavy 10 to 15 points down. Receipts—Western 110,000, last year 107,000; Chicago 50,000, last year 40,000. The receipts of hogs at 15 principal Western centres, including Chicago, since March 1, total 18,134,000, against 18,562,000 for the same season last year.

POLITICS AND GOLF.

MR. LLOYD GEORGE'S VIEWS ON BOTH.

Mr. Lloyd George, who is spending his holiday at Criccieth, made a delightful speech on golf and politics when, as President of the Criccieth Golf Club, he presided last night at a concert in aid of the funds of the club.

If I want to know what sort of politician a man is, said Mr. Lloyd George, I advise him to play a game of golf with me, and then I make up my mind afterwards whether he has any use for politics. Golf is a very delightful game, and in some respects it is rather like politics. For instance, a bad player gets more out of it than a good player. If I don't hit a ball and pull off a game it will not bother me much, but a good player always worries about his form; so golf is like politics, because an indifferent player gets far more enjoyment out of it than the practised one. Golf is one of those games in which it is important to keep your temper, whether you get into a bunker or into rough ground, or whether you miss the ball, as you do sometimes. (Laughter.)

Another respect in which golf is a good test for politicians is this—There is a type of player who is first rate as long as the thing goes well, but there is a type of player who, when things go badly, begins to play better. That is the sort of man for a partner in life, whether in politics or anything else, not the sort of fellow who hits a longer ball when he is winning, but the man who, when things are looking bad, throws back his shoulders and plays better. There is another similarity. There is no game like golf, except politics, where there is so much hope. (Laughter.) I have never seen a golfer go on the course without feeling that it was his day, when he was going to distinguish himself. Look at the golfer teeing up his ball. He takes great trouble to get it just so; he looks about two hundred yards to a point where he thinks it is going to drop; he hits it, and lands it about ten feet away. (Laughter.) Still, he takes his brassie to make up for lost time. Hope springs eternal in the golfer's breast. (Laughter.) It is just the same in politics.

Many a time I have been asked to speak for a candidate whom I know has not the ghost of a chance. I asked him how he is getting on, and he says: "We are winning." Ask any candidate twenty-four hours before the poll where he is going to be, and he says, "Easily at the top." You find him a thousand down, and he keeps on wondering what happened. (Laughter.)

That is what I shall do to-morrow, said Mr. Lloyd George, alluding to a game which he is to play on the Criccieth links with General Travers, Chairman of the Executive of the Club. I will go there determined to beat General Travers, and come away wondering what happened. (Laughter.) Criccieth Golf Club, said Mr. Lloyd George, had one disadvantage, because it was difficult to keep one's eye on the ball; one was always looking at the glorious scenery. He remembered once playing on the downs near Brighton. He constantly said to his partner—"Look at that wonderful view." At last his partner lost his temper and replied—"No good golfer ever thinks of the view." (Laughter.) Golf was a clean, straight and honourable game. It taught one some of the best lessons in life; how to get out of bunkers, because there was no course in life over which anyone played in which there were not many bunkers and plenty of rough ground.

THE EIGHT-HOUR DAY CONVENTION.

DISCUSSION AT BERNE.

BERNE, Monday.

A Conference took place here to-day between the Labour Ministers of Great Britain, France, Belgium and Germany on the ratification of the Washington Eight Hours' Day Convention.

M. Albert Thomas, President of the International Labour Office, presided.

The German Minister was under the impression that he was entitled to demand an extension of the working day during the periods over which deliveries in kind were to be made, but this was opposed by the Entente Ministers.

The Conference examined the Articles of the Convention, their practical application, and the difficulties that are likely to be met with in their application in various countries.

The discussions will be renewed to-morrow.

The Ministers will be entertained at luncheon to-morrow by the Swiss Federal Council.—(Reuter.)

MONTREAL, Monday.

Proposals for closer relationship between the Labour Party of Great Britain and the Labour Party of Canada and the British Dominions generally, with a view to the formulation of a Labour policy for the Empire have been received by the local District Labour Council from the Labour Party of Great Britain. The communication asks if the Labour Party of Canada would be willing to send delegates to an Inter-Dominion Conference on Imperial matters, to be held by the Labour Party of Great Britain early next year. The proposals will be submitted to the annual Convention of the Canadian Labour Party, to be held in Ontario in the near future.—(Reuter.)

FREEDOM OF BELFAST

CONFERRED ON THE TOWN CLERK.

The Freedom the the City of Belfast was conferred upon Sir Robert Meyer, Town Clerk yesterday at a special meeting of the City Council.

The Lord Mayor (Sir W. G. Turner), in proposing the formal resolution, said that the compliment which the Corporation was paying to the Town Clerk was unique, and the services that he had rendered to the city had also been unique. The list of honorary burgesses contained the names of many men who had won fame as Statesmen, soldiers, leaders of commerce and industry, patrons of art and philanthropists. It also contained the name of the Duke of York. He ventured to say that it would be enriched by the inclusion of the name of Sir Robert Meyer, an able counsellor, a faithful friend, and a devoted public servant.

Sir Crawford McCullagh, M.P., who seconded the motion, said that the honour which they were conferring upon Sir Robert Meyer was one which money could not buy.

The High Sheriff (Councillor McLauren) and other members spoke in high terms of the work that Sir Robert Meyer had done for the city, and the resolution was passed unanimously.

Sir F. W. Moneypenny, C.V.O., City Chamberlain, and Mr. H. A. Cutler, C.V.O., the City Surveyor, also paid tributes to Sir Robert Meyer.

The silver casket containing the certificate admitting him as an honorary burgess was then presented to the Town Clerk by the Lord Mayor amid applause.

Sir Robert Meyer, in acknowledging the compliment spoke of the changes that he had seen during his service of fifty years, and said that had it not been for the kind consideration of members of the Corporation, the willing and unselfish help which had been at all times so freely given to him by his colleagues, and for the splendid loyalty of his immediate staff, he would have found the task too great.

"I can truly say," he added, "that I have endeavoured to discharge my duty with strict impartiality, and if my public actions have met with the approval of the citizens of Belfast I am content. I cannot do more than repeat the expression of my sense of the honour conferred upon me, which, I may say, has brought to me congratulatory messages from many of my official friends throughout the country."

THE "IRISH RADIO JOURNAL."

The Irish Radio Journal, which caters for all interested in wireless telegraphy, whether amateurs anxious to widen their knowledge of the science or experts, again urges the need for official encouragement of experiments. It is pointed out that in most countries every facility is given, but in the Free State the hundreds of radio experimenters are denied opportunities of carrying out their work to a successful conclusion. The matter is commended to the notice of the Postmaster-General. The Irish Radio Journal, in addition to reflecting the views of wireless enthusiasts, contains a number of informative articles and technical notes. The scientific notes are contributed by experts, but are written and illustrated for the less advanced student. The Journal is the organ of the Radio Association of Ireland.

MILITARY TRAINING IN FREE STATE.

SUGGESTED TERRITORIAL FORCE.

At the monthly meeting of the Dublin Rotary Club yesterday, Mr. W. Beckett in the chair.

Mr. James S. McMahon, late Captain and Adjutant of the 1st Cadet battalion Royal Dublin Fusiliers, spoke on the necessity for military training on the youth of Ireland with a view to stimulate patriotism, pride of country, inculcation of true discipline, and a supply of officers to the army at little expense. What he desired to see was an army in Ireland, moulded and made so that it should be truly representative of all classes in the country, and not of one class only. He did not want to have an army for aggressive purposes, but as a means of national defence, and also in another aspect—the physical well-being of the manhood of the nation, in addition to the love of colour and sentiment, which was inherent in every Irishman.

If anyone had prophesied ten years ago that ere long we should be engaged in the greatest of all wars, he would have been derided as a fool. It was to the foresight of the late Lord Roberts that so many miniature rifle clubs had started all over the British Isles, and this became of the greatest service during the conflict. The departure of the British Army from Ireland meant a tremendous loss to the country in many ways. He believed that no Irish boy should have his activities or his career "cribbed, cabined and confined."

At present they had a small standing army. Such an army must always be maintained, but he strongly advocated the formation of a territorial force. Why, he asked, should there not be a battalion for each county in Ireland, with headquarters in the capital town of the county? This would mean the drawing of all classes together in a common bond of sympathy and mutual interest. It would create a healthy rivalry between each county as to efficiency and smartness. It would serve as an outlet for the martial spirit, which prevails strongly in the Irish temperament, and thus, too, at very little expense, create a force which would be capable of expansion, and tend to make Ireland respected in the countries of the world.

Each of the Irish Universities should have its officers training corps, with special privileges, and the secondary schools should all have a junior officers corps, or cadet battalion.

The joys of the annual training camps, where life has been lived under war conditions, was the delight of a young man's heart, and begot a camaraderie hard to describe. The physical training, which they would receive, would turn many a "weedy" youth into a fine specimen of manhood. If ever the day should come when Ireland might have to take her stand in a righteous war, it would be well to be prepared for such an emergency, and to be able to stand four-square against the enemy.

WEXFORD COUNCIL AND MR. LAMBERT.

DEMAND FOR HIS RELEASE.

Mr. P. Donnelly seconded.

The Clerk asked to whom the resolution would be sent.

Mr. Dillon—Send it to the highest authority of the Free State. Send it to the King if you like. I suppose he is the real authority.

The resolution was unanimously passed.

The Select Vestry of Harold's Cross Parish has, with the consent of the Representative Body, presented three of the church chalices, which are not required, for use in the mission field. The members of the Select Vestry, helped by two friends, subscribed a sufficient sum to provide a paten for each chalice. One set is going to the native Church of Ovo, in Nigeria, another is going to "Our Own Missionary" in Khammamet, India, and the third has been allotted to the Dublin University Mission to Chota Nagpur for use in that district.

MOTHER AND CHILD DROWNED.

SEQUEL TO ALLEGED ROBBERY.

At St. Breward, Cornwall, yesterday afternoon, a Coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide during a fit of temporary insanity against Rosalie Gladys Hill, a married woman, aged 25, whose body, with that of her daughter, aged two years, was found in the River Camel on Sunday afternoon.

Evidence went to show that, after the police had been to the house to investigate an alleged robbery of money from the residence of her father, with whom she had been residing for some weeks, she and her daughter could not be found. It was stated that a sum of £40 was missing from a box, the property of Mrs. Hill's brother, and that yesterday £27 were recovered from a manhole above one of the bedrooms.

OBITUARY.

CANON HUGHES, LIVERPOOL.

A native of Newry, he was brought at an early age to Liverpool by his parents in 1867. He was educated at St. Edward's College, Everton, and passed to Upholland, from which he was ordained to the priesthood in 1890. As a preacher and public speaker on social and religious topics, he was in great demand all over the country. He was also a great linguist. When Ireland was in a very unsettled state Canon Hughes accompanied "Mr. Edwards," who afterwards turned out to be Lord Derby, on a mission, the object of which was the opening up of negotiations with Mr. de Valera. Lord Derby's identity was only discovered when he was on the point of returning to Liverpool from Dublin.

AN OVERTURNED MOTOR LORRY.

WATERFORD YOUTH KILLED.

Another serious motor accident is reported to have occurred early yesterday morning at a place known as the Broken Bridge, Kilmeaden, about six miles from Waterford.

A party of nine males and thirteen females left Waterford on Sunday at 12 o'clock for Dungarvan and Youghal on a pleasure trip in a four-ton lorry, which was used as a char-a-banc for the occasion. It is not clear what time the party left on the return journey to Waterford, but it appears that they arrived at the point where the accident occurred at about 1 a.m.

Having successfully crossed a very dangerous bridge, which was blown up during the recent trouble and has not been re-built, the lorry skidded and turned on its side.

The occupants were thrown on the road with great violence, and Michael Fahy (10), Castle street, Waterford, was killed.

The following female passengers were injured, some of them seriously:—Mary Hamilton, Hennessy's road (married); Mary Revellas, 36 Upper Yellow road (married); Miss Babe Keane, Stephen street; Miss Margaret Daly, Colbeck street; Miss Anne Keane, 8 Castle terrace.

OWNER'S LOVE FOR HIS HORSE.

£1 A WEEK FOR MAINTENANCE

Mr. Thomas Wilde Fawkner, of The Laburnums, Oxford road, Macclesfield, Cheshire, marine store dealer, who died February 2nd, 1923, left a will dated November 11th, 1920, which was lately the subject of the action Bennett v. Fawkner and others, in which Mr. Justice Horridge, on July 15th last, pronounced for its force and validity. Probate has accordingly been granted to Mr. John Bennett, of Belmont, Oxford road, Macclesfield, and the property is valued for probate at £7,580 7s. 3d. gross, with net personalty £3,770 14s. 3d.

The testator left a sum not exceeding £1 per week for the maintenance of his horse, and, so long as this horse shall live, his freehold land adjoining Oxford road, Barnett street, Clowes street and Francis street, Macclesfield, shall not be sold, but, with the stables and buildings thereon, be retained primarily as a home for his said horse, which is not to be worked after the testator's death for any purpose whatsoever.

TWO BOYS AND A YACHT.

ROMANCE WITH A PROSAIC SEQUEL.

A story sounding like a schoolboy's yarn was told at the Barrow Police Court yesterday, when John Bartlett, a youth of 18, was charged with stealing a yacht value £25 and having a revolver without a certificate.

Bartlett was unemployed, and decided to get away South. He proposed to take a yacht and sail to Blackpool, from where he hoped to get a Southward-going steamer to tow him. He put the idea before a fourteen year old companion, who agreed to go with him. They went to Road Island, which is reached by land, and is about five miles from Barrow, on Saturday, and saw there a suitable yacht for the purpose. Returning to Barrow they got together food and clothing, and went back to the yacht in the evening.

High tide was not until four o'clock on Sunday morning, and they sat in the yacht waiting for it, having a meal and drinking mineral waters found aboard. They cut the mooring rope, unfastened the mooring chain, and when the tide was up hoisted sail, but the yacht did not set out to sea as expected, and they were inexperienced in managing the boat. She kept drifting shorewards, and so they had to give up.

The owner of the yacht, a pilot, told the magistrates that if the wind had been the other way they would have gone out to sea, and the boat and boys would have been lost.

The younger boy was a witness.

Bartlett was bound over. The revolver found on him was forfeited. He had no ammunition.

NORTHERN INTERNEES.

The Ulster Association yesterday issued a statement on the treatment of internees. It says that since May, 1922, 725 persons have been interned for varying periods in Northern Ireland. The number to-day is 136, and of these only 59 were among those arrested in June, 1922. Eighteen men are detained in Derry and Belfast prisons, and the others are at a camp in Larne.

Allegations made in an article in the Yorkshire Observer on September 1 concerning the circumstances in which men are arrested, and the conditions in which they are maintained, are denied by the Association.

A BUICK ANNOUNCEMENT

The new 20 h.p. Six

A NEW MEMBER of the BUICK FAMILY

A NEW member of the Buick family compels respect because of the Buick traditions which it inherits.

The NEW 20 h.p. 6-CYLINDER BUICK is in everything save size an exact replica of its big brother, the 27 h.p. model, but with such modifications as regards power, weight, and price as to make it attractive to those who have hitherto had to limit themselves to a Four-Cylinder car.

In now building "Sixes" exclusively, Buick is demonstrating its faith in the much greater smoothness, better acceleration, and all round increased satisfaction given by the six-cylinder engine.

All models fitted with LOW PRESSURE TYRES and FOUR-WHEEL BRAKES.

START OF DONCASTER.

FURTHER ST. LEGER DEFECTIONS.

From Our Travelling Correspondent.

DONCASTER, Monday Night.

Much as I dislike having to do so, I must refer again to the St. Leger, for this race, with its excursions and alarums, persists in giving us no peace. The first news we had this morning was that two of the Manton candidates, Hurstwood and Bright Knight, were coughing and would not run. Hurstwood was struck out later in the day—a piece of bad luck for his owner, Mr. Tattersall, and his breeder, Mr. Peter Fitzgerald, for he was much fancied. St. Germans and Reggio appear to have escaped and have been sent here. Sansovino is coming later. He was galloped over a mile this morning, and finished well in front of Burnt Sienna and Torlonia, so Mr. Lambton has decided to let him take his chance, remote as it appears to me.

The French candidates, Irismond and Transvaal, are here, and the former, who was well backed again to-day, is much fancied. It is almost certain now that Donoghue will ride him, as Mr. J. B. Joel is not likely to run anything. The going is in splendid order, and if no further rain falls Polyphontes will be at a considerable advantage. His rivals are falling one after another like the autumn leaves.

The race for the Champagne Stakes to-morrow may not be so interesting as was expected, for the Sun Worship colt does not run. MANNA is doubtful. I would choose him to win if started, and in his absence I would take PICAROON, who won so easily at Goodwood, to beat the King's colt, Runnymede. Highbrow runs for the Great Yorkshire Handicap against Shippon, Apron, and Henry the Seventh. Apron, who runs instead of Ceylonese, is much fancied, but I expect SHIPPON to beat both him and Highbrow. LOMONDSIDE, who won so easily at Derby for Mr. Persse's stable, has a 7lb. penalty to carry in the Glasgow Nursery, but I do not think that will prevent this useful colt from winning again. I like best the chance of MARDI GRAS in the Doncaster High-Weight Handicap.

LONDON BETTING—YESTERDAY.

The best backed horse in the St. Leger was the French candidate, Irismond, who advanced from 1,000 to 100, taken several times to nines, and finally closed at eights. The favourite, Polyphontes, meanwhile was supported from threes down to 5 to 2 offered. Salmon Trout and Sansovino travelled well at their quoted rates, and St. Germans went best of the others. TO-DAY'S PROGRAMME AND SELECTIONS.

To state that all the trains which reached Doncaster from the South yesterday afternoon—and the number included several special and relief trains—carried the maximum is understating the actual position, as in two cases at least the corridors found passengers standing during the greater portion of the journey down. The town is already filling up, and indications point to a very successful meeting this week. The programme is constructed on the customary lines, all the old-established events being retained, and it is scarcely necessary to suggest that the St. Leger bids fair to be as thrilling as it usually is, the issue growing apparently more open with each recurring hour. Of one thing trainers may rest assured—that, should no further rain fall in the intervening hours, the Town Moor will be found in grand condition on Wednesday afternoon, and we shall probably witness a very fast-run race for the last of the season's classics. There is a fly in the ointment, though, which is bound adversely to affect the strength of some of the fields. I allude to the prevalence of coughing at several training centres. I understand that neither Peacock nor Bazley sends horses from Middleham on that account, and there are others. The race for the Champagne Stakes to-day could be exceedingly interesting, as the entries embrace several notable juveniles, such as the two Goodwood winners, Picaroon and Manna, both evidently smart; Runnymede, Jovial Monk, and others that have been seen to more or less advantage. There is, or has been, coughing at Beckhampton, which may prevent Manna being sent, and this may pave the way for Picaroon. If Norseman is none the worse for his gruelling race with Kwannon last Saturday he would be a tough proposition to get over in the Great Yorkshire Handicap, in which London Cry could have opposed him on 3lb. easier terms, but the latter is a very tired horse. Selections:—

YACHTING.

HOWTH SAILING CLUB.

The Howth Club had a change of venue on Saturday, when they crossed to Malahide to compete in special races organised by the local yachtsmen.

A cruisers handicap attracted a fine entry of no less than eleven yachts, of which number nine started. The handicap had been prepared by the Howth Committee during the week, and how well they carried out their work may be judged from the result in which Sheila II. scored a popular win from Togo and Barbara by the very small margin of five seconds, the two last-named boats tieing for second prize. Oola was next at 4.47, while Klysma and Marguerite tied for next place at 4.48, with Eithne only ten seconds behind. The handicapping of different class cruisers in a race of this nature is at best a difficult job, and one doubts if a closer finish has been witnessed on this coast for a very long time.

A fine fresh breeze from the S.E. left the sea rather rough for the smaller craft, but a good start was made at 3.20 p.m. Sheila and Klysma were over-keen, however, and suffered a recall, but all got away well for the N.E. mark. A triangular course had been laid out in the bay, with a finish up the river, the outer course being covered twice, and, as the times show, the issue was in doubt until almost all the boats had crossed the winning line. The final times (corrected for handicap) and placings were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Sheila II. (winner)—Mr. R. Walsh (8 min.)	4	44	45
Togo—Mr. Bretland (scr.)	4	44	50
Barbara—Mr. J. Richardson (9 min.)	4	44	50
Oola—Messrs. Courtney and Plasson (scr.)	4	47	0
Klysma—Mr. E. Lochlainn (7 min.)	4	48	0
Marguerite—Mr. W. Tomlinson (11 min.)	4	48	0
Eithne—Mr. Boyd (10 min.)	4	48	10
Vagrant—Mr. D. Mellon (15 min.)	5	7	0
Plead—Mr. J. Wellington (30 min.)	gave up.

The "17-Footers" were represented by five boats, the start being made at 3.35 p.m. For this race the start was in the river, which necessitated a beat to the outer course, which was traversed once, and then a finish up the river. An almost perfect start was made, Pauline, Rita, Bobolink and Echo being abreast, with Silvermoon a very short distance astern. Echo held the windward berth, and in the beat down the river worked out a nice lead, which she never lost, and eventually ran out a winner by a little over two minutes. Her nearest opponent was Pauline, which seems to improve in every race, and looks like developing into a "crack" boat in the hands of her new owner. The final times and placings were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Echo (winner)—Mr. R. Hall	5	8	4
Pauline (2nd prize)—Mr. G. Rae	5	10	15
Silvermoon—Mr. J. W. Beckett	5	11	30
Rita—Mr. W. A. Mooney	5	11	40
Bobolink—Mr. R. Guinness	5	13	50

The number of yachts in the river made a very pretty spectacle, which was thoroughly enjoyed by a large number of onlookers.

Mr. T. R. Bailey was officer of the day.

DUBLIN BAY SAILING CLUB.

Except that there was no rain about, the concluding day of the season was rather disappointing, there being no wind to speak of in the bay for a long time after the starts on Saturday, while there was an unpleasant confused sea running. In the mixed classes match Innisfallen was started at 3.10 p.m., and Punctilio and Darthula 10 min. later, the trio making the best of their way out to the Bar buoy. In the Liffey there was a breeze, and it was only when they came into the zone of this that they began to sail. Innisfallen gave up, returning to harbour. The couple of 25-footers, with this new wind, finished the course in quite good time. Finish:—

	H.	M.	S.
Punctilio (winner)—Messrs. Newsom and Stephens (scr.)	5	50	10
Darthula—Mr. W. B. B. Graham (3 min.)	5	54	33

The half-dozen Wags, which were started at 3.30 p.m., had a dreary time of it trying to get down to Bullock mark in the light airs and catspaw. One by one they gave up the struggle until only Barbara (Dr. J. T. Wigham) was left, and this boat getting the new wind was able to complete the course and finish a winner at 6h. 2m. 56s.

THE BURNHAM WEEK.

The racing of the second day of Burnham week was under the flag of the Royal Corinthian Yacht Club. The breeze, which was south-westerly, was on the strong side, when Clymene (Mr. P. de G. Benson), Noreen (Mr. F. Last), Vanity (Messrs. Reid and Payne), Atalanta (Mr. J. R. Piper), and Moyana II. (Mr. W. Leuchars), started in the 12-metre match, sailed over a 37½ mile course. The last-named was over the line at gun-fire and recalled, but lost less than a minute in re-crossing. Vanity sailed a fast race and won easily, but there is a protest lodged against her. The official finishing times were:—

	H.	M.	S.
Vanity (winner)	2	59	7
Atalanta (second)	3	5	30
Moyana II. (third)	3	11	46
Noreen	3	11	55
Clymene	3	12	48

ANGLING.

TYRONE AND DERRY RIVERS.

The spate of yesterday came in time to save the situation on some of the Derry and Tyrone rivers, where flax water was making its presence felt. On the Ree another dry day would have proved fatal. Salmon fishing on the Mourne promises to be good in the back-end of the season, the stock of fish being the heaviest seen for many years.

A CURIOUS INCIDENT.

A curious incident occurred to Mr. J. Curry, a Coleraine angler, while fishing the Bann recently. While casting three snipe passed overhead, and the tail fly struck one of them and hooked him securely. The snipe fell into the river and was flapping about when Mr. Curry's terrier dog jumped into the water to retrieve the bird out. The terrier got mixed up in the cast which snapped, and the bird went free. Different kinds of birds have been so hooked, but this seems to be the first record of snipe caught fly fishing.

GOLF.

THE IRISH OPEN.

FIRST AND SECOND ROUNDS.

It was a pleasant change from the torrential downpour which set in overnight to find the links at Dollymount bathed in brilliant sunshine yesterday morning. In fact, but for the turf being sodden in places and the slow greens, there was little trace of the abnormal rainfall, and a heavy day's golf was carried though under conditions which, if anything, were even more agreeable than those experienced during the international matches last week, for there was not so much power in the sun, and the air was refreshingly cool and invigorating.

The first and second rounds were got through, but it was quite an uneventful day, with scarcely a result that was not anticipated. The "fancied" players were fairly evenly distributed in the draw, but the more attractive half was the lower, in which figured Mr. A. B. Babington, Mr. R. McConnell, the brothers Donal, Walter and Charles Carroll, Mr. J. Dee, Mr. D. Wilson Smyth, Mr. Carl Bretherton, and Dr. T. W. G. Johnson; while the top half included Mr. Ector Munn, Mr. Manly, Mr. Stevenson, Mr. Spiller, Mr. A. Lowe, Mr. J. F. Jameson and Mr. Joseph Gorry. With one exception, they all survived, the exception being the Irish Army champion, Major Carroll, who struck his flag in the second round to Mr. R. H. Hunter at the 19th, after one of the most interesting finishes of the day.

Mr. Hunter took a substantial lead early on, winning the 1st, 4th and 5th in good golf, but starting home, Major Carroll had wiped out his arrears. He, however, broke down at a critical stage of the inward journey, the 13th and 14th, being out of bounds twice on the way to the 14th. On reaching the home green he was confronted with a five yards' putt to avert defeat, but he holed it, and they went to the 19th. Had the Major steered a clear course from the first tee he must have been well ahead of Mr. Hunter, but he hooked his shot badly. His opponent hit a very good second to the edge of the green on the right, and Major Carroll, just failing to get home from the rough, played his chip from off the green too strong, and this lost him the hole and the match, Mr. Hunter winning it in 4-5.

The first round was noteworthy for the fight which Mr. F. G. Dickson, of the North-West, put up against Mr. Alfred Lowe, who was brought to the home green by the North-Westerner. Indeed, this was one of the best matches of the series. Out in 35, Mr. Lowe was then 2 up, but it was all square at the 11th. Mr. Lowe won the 16th, but after drawing level at the next hole, Mr. Dickson hit his third to the home green into the garden and lost the match. In his second match Mr. Lowe had to go even further to shake off the Camberley Heath golfer, Captain H. A. Parsons. The Ulsterman reached the turn in an approximate 36 for a two-hole lead, and when he increased it to 3 at the 12th he was in a fairly comfortable position, but the soldier was not to be beaten without putting up a stubborn fight, and the match went along to the 18th, Mr. Lowe having been stymied on the 16th, which he halved. Captain Parsons won the home hole to square, but a steady 4 to 5 at the tie hole gave Mr. Lowe victory.

Another intensely interesting struggle was waged between Mr. H. M. Cairnes, who may aptly be described as of the old school of Irish golfers, and his opponent in the second round, Dr. T. W. Johnson, who on Saturday made the record of 71 for the green in the stroke competition. The golf out was very good, and at the turn the younger player held a one-hole lead. Mr. Cairnes was apparently in a bad way when he became 4 down at the 13th; but of the remaining five holes he won the 14th, 16th and 17th, and was beaten only on the last green.

Mr. Manly in the second round produced some excellent golf on the way out against the Scottish player, Mr. Weir, stringing together a sequence of 3's at the 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th. He took only 34 to the 9th, where he laid a stymie, and had then the useful lead of 3 holes. The Scot held his own well on the return half; but he was beaten at the 16th by four holes. Mr. Gorry had also a run of 3's against Mr. T. F. Jameson. The Kildare man reproduced quite his best golf in this match. With 3's at the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth, he went out in 33 for a four holes' lead, and, maintaining his good form coming back, he won by 6 and 5. Mr. J. F. Jameson found Mr. F. McConnell a little off his game in the second round. In the morning the Royal Portrush youth had beaten Mr. H. R. Wright rather decisively, but he was 4 down to Mr. Jameson at the half-way stage. He pulled himself together somewhat on the way in, reducing his arrears to 2 at the twelfth; but Mr. Jameson became dormy 3, and he got his half at the sixteenth.

Mr. J. Dee was irresistible in his second round match with Mr. A. Maclean. With 34 for the outward half he led by 5 holes, and from that it was merely a question of the margin by which he would prevail. He won by 6 and 5. To take a lead of one hole of Mr. L. Weir at the ninth Mr. C. Bretherton had to win that hole in 2, but the Queen's University golfer did not win a hole from that on, and was beaten 4 and 3.

Mr. Ector Munn had a very pleasant match with Major Boyd, which, after being square at the turn, ended in the defeat of the Portmarnock representative by 3 and 2; but Dr. Gerald Moore, the old Clontarf player, was hard pressed to get the better of Mr. Small by 2 and 1. In the first round Mr. J. E. Dalton sprung a surprise by defeating the Welsh player, Mr. Segar Pugh, 2 and 1. From the eleventh on, as in the Junior Cup final, he broke down, and, although he was leading at that point by 5 holes, he had to go to the seventeenth to win. He then put up a good fight against Mr. A. B. Babington, but again the riper experience of Mr. Babington told in the end. Mr. Walter Carroll had a couple of big victories, and his brother, Charles, continued to produce the excellent golf which carried him through the international matches. Results:—

CRICKET.

PHŒNIX V. PEMBROKE.

Despite the heavy overnight rain, the Phœnix pitch was in quite good condition yesterday, when Pembroke visited the Park for their return Senior League match, though the outfield was naturally a bit on the sodden side. A rather tame game resulted in a draw owing to rain. Phœnix batted first, W. P. Hone and E. L. Kidd opening to the bowling of Bonass and Aylward. Kidd was missed off the first ball received, but survived to be fifth out for a patient 10. Hone got 15 (2 fours), but Wilkinson was stumped when 5, and six wickets were down for 48. Peacocke and J. W. Crawfurd made a stand, the former batting carefully for 21, while Butler got 9, and when Phœnix declared with eight wickets down for 105, Crawfurd had a lively 32 not out to his credit, in which were two sixes and three fours. Aylward bowled well, securing 5 for 40, while Bonass had 3 for 60.

Pembroke started badly, losing Cordner and Ruddle with only 8 runs scored, but Parker and Pickeman then made a good stand, and the half century was signalled when the innings had lasted forty minutes. At 55 Pickeman was bowled for 29, in which were a six and three fours. Parker and Murphy took the score to 79, when rain caused a cessation of play. On resuming, Murphy, when 13, was bowled, four wickets being down for 81. When the fifth wicket fell at 87, heavy rain came on, and the match was abandoned as a draw. Parker, 35 not out, hit a six and three fours. Kidd took two wickets for 37, Allen 2 for 22, and Butler 1 for 15. Score:—

GENTLEMEN V. PLAYERS.

There was a return of ideal weather at Scarboro' for the greater part of yesterday, but a change to thunder and rain occured soon after five o'clock. The wicket, having been covered, was in fair condition, but the outfield was very slow as the result of a wet week-end. The Gentlemen, who had scored 66 for three wickets on Saturday, were not all dismissed until five minutes to four in the afternoon and they added 132. A feature of their cricket was the batting of Chapman, who showed greater capacity for forcing runs than any one of the side. He was batting eighty minutes and hit five 4's. Jardine batted an hour and thirty-five minutes, while later in the day Gilligan took two hours to make an unfinished 31, being seventy-five minutes in reaching double figures. Next to Chapman, Allen showed the best form, getting most of his runs in front of the wicket. Kennedy did hard work, but bowled with greater consistency than any of his colleagues. The Players lost Holmes, caught at short leg at 28, and were 15 runs behind with no further loss when the weather suddenly broke and stopped play. Bad light first drove the Players in, then a thunderstorm developed, and although this soon passed play was abandoned for the day at half-past five. Score:—

LORD COWDRAY'S XI. V. REST OF ENGLAND.

The day's cricket at Hastings yesterday produced some of the most dazzling hitting seen this season. Robert Relf and George Stephens, the Warwickshire amateur, both played three-figure innings, and got their runs by superb driving. Lord Cowdray's XI., having declared at Saturday's total of 314 for 8 wickets, the Rest went in, and lost Sandham at 6. Relf then began his innings. Nothing in his opening play suggested what would follow, but once he had settled down he drove with such magnificent certainty that in seventy-five minutes he scored 114 out of 141, being third out at 147. He hit seven 6's, ten 4's, seven 2's and eighteen singles, sending Woolley twice out of the ground in the same over as he got out. From one of his big hits an elderly lady on the stand was struck on the body, and had to be taken away on a stretcher. Later she was reported to be progressing favourably. Although scoring at such a pace Relf's driving was so sure that he made not the slightest approach to a false hit. He and Bowley added 118 in sixty minutes for the second wicket. Later on Stephens, going in fifth wicket down, at 197, scored 121 in eighty-five minutes. After the fall of the seventh wicket he made 81 out of the last 106 in forty minutes. He was missed at long-on at 55, and on other occasions lifted the ball dangerously, but all the same his was a wonderful display of tremendous driving. He hit three 6's, fifteen 4's, and, like Relf, he sent the ball twice out of the ground in the over in which he was dismissed. Batting three hours and forty minutes, the Rest scored at the rate of 100 an hour. Lord Cowdray's XI., 53 behind, had seventy-five minutes' batting, and, losing 4 wickets for 54, wound up one run ahead, with 6 wickets to be got rid of. Glorious weather prevailed after a wet night, but the pitch, having been covered, was fast. Score:—

YORKSHIRE C.C.

A meeting of the Yorkshire County Cricket Committee was held in Leeds yesterday, Lord Hawke presiding. A proposal by Lancashire regarding the championship that in future only matches played to a finish should count, thus doing away with the first innings' points and ignoring drawn games, was approved, and it was decided to support the suggestion. Notts sent a proposal that the hours of play in County matches on the first and second days should be extended to seven o'clock, and on the third day stumps should be drawn at 5.30 p.m. It was decided to oppose this on the ground that the present hours are suitable.

POLO.

GREAT BRITAIN V. AMERICA.

MR. LACEY UNABLE TO PLAY.

NEW YORK, September 8.

It was announced to-day that Mr. Lacey had withdrawn from the British international polo team owing to an attack of shingles. American sporting writers comment on Mr. Lacey's withdrawal as a very favourable development for the Americans, as it was generally agreed that he was the best player in the British team, and was to have captained them in the first international cup match to-morrow. The side will now be composed as follows:—No. 1, Major Kirkwood; No. 2, Major Phipps-Hornby; No. 3, Major Hurndall; back, Major Atkinson. It is not known who will captain the team in Mr. Lacey's absence, but the fact that Major Hurndall gave up the leadership to Mr. Lacey points to him resuming this position.

The Americans did not play a serious match yesterday as they are all in good condition, and only require exercise. Messrs. Webb, Hitchcock, Stevenson and Milburn spent a short time in the field knocking the ball about. Periodically one of them would cut in and dash away with the ball, but there was nothing strenuous about their work. They looked very fit, and their striking was good. The British team played a practice match, Major Phipps-Hornby playing for the "Scrubs" against the "Fellows," the "Scrubs" winning by 9 goals to 5. Critics are remarking on the way the British players are rapidly coming into form. They are improving each day, and the opinion was expressed that if Mr. Lacey were able to play it would be a very close contest. The public interest in the matches is greater than has ever been known, and the Prince of Wales intends to be present. The postponement of Saturday's game, for which 40,000 tickets had been sold, has not resulted in any loss, as practically none of the tickets have been returned. The second international cup match will be played next Saturday and the third next week, probably Wednesday, no matter how the first two games have resulted.

LONDON STOCKS FIRM.

BUSINESS RESTRICTED.

The Stock Markets presented a cheerful appearance yesterday, but business was restricted by the settlement now in progress. The carry-over in Mining shares was arranged yesterday. German Bonds continued to be of interest, although dealings were not on such a large scale as last week. In Breweries, Guinness put on a further 8 points to 460 x.d. and bonus, while the Pref. were maintained at 117½ x.d. Watney Coombe Def. remained at 244½. Tea Shares were again active, and while in a few instances final quotations were below the best, the majority of alterations were in favour of holders. In gilt-edged securities British Funds were better. The 5 per cent. were better, and showed a gain of ⅛ to 101⅝. Funding Loan closed ⅛ higher on the day at 90, while Victory Bonds remained at 92½. In Conversions the 3½ per cent. put on ¼ to 77½, while the 4½ per cent. showed no alteration at 98. Indias were firm. Local Loans repeated their week-end quotation. In Colonial Government securities Canada 4½ per cent. 1920-25 gained a point to 101½.

FOREIGN GOVERNMENT SECURITIES were generally maintained at previous levels, but where any change was recorded prices were lower. French Loans were steady at week-end prices, while German Bonds, although fairly active, also showed no alterations at the finish. Argentines and Brazilians were all repeated. Chinese, despite the weakness of the exchange, were fairly well held. The 5 per cent. 1896 and the 4½ per cent. 1898 were both unchanged at 91 and 76 x.d. respectively. The 5 per cent. 1912, however, dropped back, and the final price showed a fall of a point to 67½. Egyptian Unified were also lower on the day, being a ½ down at 7. Japanese were steady, while Mexicans were also without alteration. Peruvians were maintained at previous levels. Portuguese 3 per cent. gave way and finished ½ lower at 28.

HOME RAILS showed little change, and prices were generally repeated. Great Westerns were supported, and closed ½ higher at 109. Midlands were firm, but final quotations revealed no alterations. North Easterns were steady at previous prices. Metropolitans were offered, but prices were held. Southern Pref. Ord. gave way slightly, and finished ½ down. The Def. Ord. at 42¼ and the "A" shares at 39½ were both without change.

COLONIALS AND FOREIGN RAILS were irregular, but, taken on balance, slightly higher. Buenos Ayres Pacific dropped ½ to 84½, while the Western gave way and finished a point down: Central Argentine at 75 showed a loss of ½. Leopoldina closed lower at 23½. Grand Trunk Pacifics were better, and fairly brisk business was done during the day. The final price showed a gain of 2 points to 67. Central Uruguay put on a point to 60, while Entre Rios Ord. at 21, and the 6 per cent. Cum. Pref. at 79½, were both a point to the good. Mexicans were unchanged.

OIL SHARES IDLE.

AMERICAN PRODUCTION.

Idleness characterised the Oil share market yesterday, conditions being much the same as during the closing days of the preceding week. Price movements finally recorded were generally of a slight and unimportant character. The preliminaries in connection with the carry-over revealed a further reduction in the option position, and the bulk of the Contango arrangements were completed. Shells, V.O.C. Holdings, and most of the usually active shares were takers in, but Phœnix were givers, the rate on the last-named being as high as 9 per cent. There was, however, not much of a position either way. A further increase in American production was not a helpful factor. The American Petroleum Institute estimates that the daily average crude oil production in the United States in the week ended August 23 amounted to 2,037,700 barrels, as compared with 2,029,650 for the preceding week, an increase of 8,050 barrels. In the week ended August 23 production of crude oil in Mexico amounted to 2,663,000 barrels, as compared with 2,691,000 barrels in the preceding week, an decrease of 28,000 barrels. Fluctuations among the recognised leaders were of little importance. Shells gave way in the early hours on moderate sales preliminary to the carry-over, and although they rallied at ... midday, provincial selling was encountered in the afternoon, and a shrinkage was finally recorded. Royal Dutch were firm at the start, but receded later partly owing to the lack of interest and partly in sympathy with Shells. Transactions in Anglo-Persians, Burmahs, and Mexican Eagles were of insufficient volume to influence quotations. Despite advices that the Phœnix Oil and Transport Company has brought in two further large wells in the Moreni field, Phœnix shares were quiet, and a trifle easier on balance. Other Rumanians were uninteresting. Except that there were buyers about of Apex shares, Trinidad issues commanded very little attention. United British closed easier. Firmness was displayed by nouncement of an interim dividend of 5 per cent., which is at the same rate as the interim dividend in respect of 1923. In other directions a recovery was marked in Lobitos, and Anglo-Americans strengthened. Closing prices:—

LONDON MINING MARKET STEADY.

LITTLE CHANGE IN RATES.

In view of the conditions prevailing during the account now in course of settlement, the arrangement of the carry-over yesterday was easily accomplished. With very few exceptions, rates ruled about the same as on the previous occasion—that is, about 5¼ to 6½ per cent. Although the arrangement of the carry-over interfered with business to some extent during the early hours, the market was not devoid of interest, and dealings here and there were on a fairly extensive scale. There was not much of a public demand for Kaffirs, however, despite the satisfactory nature of the returns for the past month. Paris was indifferent, but the Cape was a buyer of East Rands to the accompaniment of rumours that the broad outlines of an amalgamation with the Cinderella had been decided upon. Union Corporation continued a strong spot, but several of the other leaders, including Central Mining, Rand Mines, Brakpan Springs, and Van Ryn Deep were allowed to drift. There was a fair volume of trading in the Rhodesian section, but it was of a mixed character, and made little impression on quotations. Tanks and Zams were a trifle down on the day. Cam and Motor and Sherwood Starr were dullish, but Globes and Gaika were both wanted. Chartered were unaltered, but among the lower-priced descriptions Bechuanaland Exploration and Transvaal and Rhodesia were both inquired for, and moved up. Diamonds were steady, but quiet buying of Consolidated Diamonds continued on the improving condition of the market for the stones. In spite of a drop of £3 5s. to £253 12s. 6d. per ton in the price of the metal, the Tin share market made quite a good showing, with Eastern and Nigerian descriptions alike in request and better. Coppers were quiet, with Rio Tinto drooping; while, among Russians, Russo-Asiatic receded. Closing prices:—

INDUSTRIALS PATCHY.

GUINNESS SHARES STRONGER.

Business in the Miscellaneous and Industrial markets yesterday was described as "patchy," and no decided tendency was apparent. The preliminary arrangements in connection with to-day's carry-over were being effected, and this naturally restricted business to some extent. In response to a fresh demand, Guinness further appreciated to 460 ex div. and bonus, or 8 up on the day. Elsewhere in the Brewery section there was a fair amount going on, though this was scarcely reflected in price movements. Hodgsons put on ¼ to 9½, but Allsopps fell 1-16 to 15-16 and Hoare Ord. a like amount to 2 1-16. Hotel Shares held their ground, Hotel Yorks coming into favour again and recovering to 23s. 9d., or 9d. higher on balance. Caterers scarcely moved and Foodstuffs were featureless. Among Textiles Fine Spinners received support and left off 6d. better at 50s., while Sewing Cottons hardened to 56s. On the other hand, Celanese came on offer and dropped 6d. to 9s. 6d., while the Prefs. declined to 11s. 9d. Courtaulds receded to 52s. 3d. Stores descriptions remained quietly steady at previous levels. In the Land section, Bays moved up to 4 11-16; Yangtse Corporations stiffened to 5s. 6d. and British North Borneo to 10s. Forestals were the turn lower at 22s. 7½d. Nitrates were inclined to dulness, falls of 1s. taking place in Anglo-Chilians to 66s., in Pan de Azucars to 51s., and in Salars to 72s. 6d. Lagunas, however, stiffened to 8s. 3d.

Niger Prefs. were still supported, advancing to 17s. 6d. Elsewhere in the Miscellaneous Trading section Cement issues found support. Associateds improved to 16s. 3d., and British Portlands rose 9d. to 27s. Columbia Gramophones were in strong demand and rose 2s. 6d. to 31s. 6d. De Treys registered a slight recovery at 19s. 3d., while Bryant and Mays moved up to 48s. 9d., though Swedish Match "B" eased to 8⅜. Borax Def. fell 9d. to 41s. 9d., while slight set-backs took place in Brunner Monds to 38s. and in Salt Unions to 24s. 3d. Dunlops eased to 8s. 7½d. Nobel Industries receded to 22s. 9d., despite the satisfactory report, while the Pref. and Def. shed 3d. each to 21s. 3d. and 8s. 9d. respectively. Newspaper shares did not move. Except for the Ord., which closed 1-16 down at 1 11-16 x.d., the Marconi group kept up. Cables were on the dull side, Anglo "A" closing fractionally easier at 23⅞, while Globes receded to 17 1-16. Metropolitan Electrics advanced to 34s. 6d., or another 1s. up on balance. In the Iron and Steel list a demand sprang up for Stewart and Lloyd's Def., which caused a recovery to 48s., or 6d. better. Howard and Bullough rose that much to 41s., while Mond Nickel continued a firm spot at 42s. 3d., business being recorded at up to 43s. 1½d. Falls of 6d. took place in Cammell Lairds to 9s., in Guest Keens to 34s. 6d., in Lambert Bros. to 51s., Swan Hunters to 30s. x.d., and in United Steel Prefs. to 11s. 9d. Gas Stocks were featureless. Among Shipping securities, Canada Steamships were wanted, rising 4½ to 15. Motor shares eased in places, Humbers giving way to 25s. 9d., Rovers to 10s. 6d. Austin Debs. improved to 80, and the "A" Prefs. rose to 12s. Napiers hardened to 23s. 9d., and Vauxhalls to 7s. 3d. Firmness characterised the Tobacco group. R. and J. Hills closed 2s. up at 32s. 6d. Cope Bros. also continued in request, and rose to 60s. A. Bakers improved to 29s. 3d., B.A.T.'s to 109s., and Imperials to 78s. 6d. x.d. Bank shares suffered from realisations. Hong Kong and Shanghai lost 1 at 136, while falls of ⅛ occurred in National of Egypt to 24⅞ x.d., in Standard of South Africas to 11½, in Union of Australias to 14⅞, and in Westminsters to 17⅛.

MINING REPORT.

Selukwe Gold Mining and Finance Co.—B.C. Silver Mines.—Progress Report, dated 20th August. The manager reports B.C. silver developments:—"Raise 351 feet is now 80 feet from No. 3 level. The ore for the last 15 feet is under 4 dollars per ton. There appears to be better ore on the hanging wall or west side, however, and we will straighten up the raise a little, and try and get into this. The winze is down 6 feet, and although the wall values are only 5 dollars or so we have a width of 5 feet of dollars 27 ore in the centre of the bottom. Drift 231—This has been advanced 180 feet in Porphyry since the beginning of this month."

Shan States Silver Lead Corporation, Ltd.—Extract from progress report for period ended 31st July received from Bawzaing Mines, Burma:—"The main ore channel has now been followed for 315 feet on its strike ore, 200 feet level, out of which 37 feet have been found unpayable. 200 Feet Level.—Results of lateral development in following the main stockwork in both directions of this level have been most gratifying, as 95 per cent. of all driving has been on ore well above the milling grade first contemplated. The old concentrating plant was restarted on the 28th July, and records to date show an average daily recovery of about a ton of dressed concentrates."

THE MONEY MARKET.

LOANS IN AMPLE SUPPLY.

EXCHANGES RALLYING.

There was a fair demand for money yesterday, but supplies proved ample and conditions remained comfortable. Day-to-day money was 2¾ to 3 p.c. for both old and new loans, while seven-day advances were renewed at 2¾ p.c. The tendency of discounts was not quite so firm, 3¾ p.c. being the more general rate for fine three months' bills, although these were still quoted 3⅝-3 11-16 p.c. Second-hand Treasuries were also in little better demand at 3 11-16-3⅝ p.c., a fair business being done between these figures. Long-dated commercial bills were also quoted a shade lower.

Gold rose 3d. per oz. further to 93s. Silver fell 1-16d. per oz. to 34⅛d. for both spot and forward delivery.

Foreign exchanges were somewhat brighter yesterday, and francs and sterling were inclined to pick up after the recent fall. Sterling on New York rallied from 4.43 7-16 to 4.44⅜-4.44 7-16 dollars, and French francs were a little better at 84.20-84.30. Belgian francs, however, were not so good at 89¼-89⅜, but Italy firmed up to 101⅞-102 lire. Dutch currency weakened with the dollar to 11.61½, and Spanish, Swiss and Swedish exchanges all moved in favour of London. South American currencies were generally firmer, Argentine dollars being 42 7-16-42 1-16, Brazilian milreis 5 3-16-5 11-16, Monte Video 43⅞-44⅜ per dollar, and Valparaiso 44.80 pesos. Rupees hardened to 1s. 5 15-16d.-1s. 5 7-16d., but Japanese yen were weaker at 1s. 10¼d.-1s. 10 7-16d. China rates further advanced. The following are closing quotations:—

RUBBER SHARES IRREGULAR.

DUBLIN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE.

CROSS-CHANNEL FREIGHTS.

The monthly meeting of the Council of the Dublin Chamber of Commerce was held in the Council Room, Commercial Buildings, Dame street, yesterday. There were present—Mr. William Crowe (Vice-President), in the chair; Messrs. E. H. Andrews, D.L., J.P.; Lewis H. S. Beatty, R. W. Booth, J.P.; G. Brock, F.C.A.; D. J. Cogan, J. C. M. Eason, B.A., O.B.E., P.C.; H. W. Ede, M.B.E.; John Good, T.D., D.L., J.P.; Jonathan Goodbody, James J. Halpin, P.C.; James W. Hill, J.P.; George N. Jacob, J.P.; Patrick Leonard, J.P.; James Shanks, J.P.; Maurice H. Stokes, P.C.; Sir Simon W. Maddock, D.L. J.P.; and Senator Michael O'Dea, J.P.

Apologies for absence were received from Dr. W. Lombard Murphy (President), Mr. H. J. Millar (Deputy Vice-President), Mr. E. F. C. Mercier, P.C.; Mr. L. W. Martin, and the High Sheriff.

The minutes of the Council meeting of 11th August, as circulated, were taken as read and signed.

The minutes of the House and Finance Committee meeting of 5th September were considered and approved.

Wednesday, 29th October, 1924, was fixed as the date for the October ordinary general meeting of members.

The notice from cross-Channel carrying companies of the increase in freights taking effect as from 1st September, 1924, was considered, and referred to the Traffic and Transit Committee for consideration, and report to the next meeting. The Committee was also directed to give attention to the question of Customs charges generally.

A letter was read from a member, suggesting that the order of the Ministry of Agriculture prohibiting the importation of straw bottle covers—packing—should be withdrawn, "as it imposes extra expense and loss, because of the impossibility of finding a satisfactory substitute." After a full discussion, it was decided to refer the matter to the Trade and Commerce Committee for investigation.

A complaint from a member, to the effect that he had received a notice from the Post Office Telephones Department that his telephone number is to be changed by 1st October next, owing to alterations in the exchange system, was read and referred to the Trade and Commerce Committee.

GOLD MINES OF NORTHERN ONTARIO.

RECORD OUTPUT FOR AUGUST.

TORONTO, Monday.

The preliminary estimates show that the income of the gold mines of Northern Ontario for August amounted, approximately, to 2,300,000 dollars, this being a new record. Six mines in the Porcupine district and four in the Kirkland Lake area contributed to the output.—(Reuter.)

BREAK IN COTTON.

NEW YORK, Monday.

On the Cotton Market to-day prices broke 103 to 125 points, after the announcement of the Government estimate of the yield, under heavy speculative and hedge selling, and the withdrawal of many trade buying orders. Spinners believe that the report foreshadows an ample supply for the season, and are disposed to purchase conservatively, anticipating lower levels. The close was easy, 90 to 101 points lower.—(Reuter.)

WATER POLO.

LEINSTER SENIOR CUP—SEMI-FINAL.

A good crowd was present last night at Blackrock Baths, when the semi-final ties of the Senior Cup were played, in cool, threatening weather.

SANDYCOVE v. DUBLIN.

Teams:—

Sandycove—Fagan; Fitzhugh, Walsh; C. Higginbotham; G. Higginbotham, Kenna, and C. Fagan.

Dublin—Kay; Sexton and Judd; M. O'Connor; J. O'Connor, Fagan, and Purcell.

Referee—Dr. J. Beckett.

The exchanges favoured Dublin on the whole, Sandycove being particularly on the defensive throughout each half. C. Fagan, at back, assisted by C. R. Walsh, played steadily for Sandycove, and effectively prevented Dublin from finishing their many attacks. Purcell eventually scored for the League champions from very short range, by which score Dublin led at the interval.

The second half was more or less a replica of the first, Dublin being almost continually on the attack. The Sandycove defence, in which the two Fagans were very prominent, was, however, unbeatable until near the finish, when M. O'Connor swam through and scored a splendid goal from a sharp angle. Dublin pressed to the end, but could not add to their score. Result:—

Dublin ... 2 goals.
Sandycove ... Nil.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY v. CLONTARF.

Teams:—

Dublin University—Stafford; Corbett and Ellekor; Woods; Dockrell, Murtagh, and Brooks.

Clontarf—Brennan; Barrett and Brady; Cullen; E. Roche, O'G. Roche and Quinn.

Referee—Mr. C. Fagan.

The exchanges in the opening half were fast and exciting, up and down play being the rule. Clontarf were slightly the better side, and led by a goal at the interval, scored by Brady, who was a dominating figure throughout.

Dublin University equalised shortly after the change over, per Brooks. Even play followed, with Clontarf somewhat the more prominent. Roche missed a good chance for the lead, but Cullen shortly afterwards finished off a fine dribble with a splendidly placed shot, which put his team in front. The exchanges to the end were even, and near the finish Corbett equalised the scores with a grand goal. At full time the scores were level, and extra time was ordered. Dublin University were in the ascendancy for a spell, but the Clontarf defence was resolute, and gradually the North side team asserted their superiority. Quinn scored the leading goal, and to the end Clontarf stayed the better. Result:—

Clontarf ... 3 goals.
Dublin University ... 2 goals.
